

TARIFF UP AT LAST.

Aldrich Spoke on the Bill in Senate Today.

THE REPUBLICANS NOT AGREED.

Burrows, Fearing Many a Squabble Ahead, Had a Resolution Adopted by the Republican Caucus, Providing For Nightly Conferences on Schedules.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—The much-talked-of and much-delayed tariff bill was at last called up in the senate today by Senator Aldrich, who then spoke in advocacy of the measure and explained much of it in detail.

The Republican caucus emphasized the fact that there is a wide divergence of opinion among the Republican senators on rates of duty fixed in the various schedules of the tariff bill. The senators were in caucus nearly four hours. The only official announcement that was made after the caucus adjourned was that it was decided to appoint three senators in addition to the Republican member of the finance committee, who are to act as committee to assist in getting the tariff bill through the senate. It was generally stated, however, that an agreement had been reached that there should be no set speeches on the bill from the Republican side, except that of Senator Aldrich.

A resolution or memorandum offered by Senator Burrows was agreed to by those present, which sets forth that the sense of those present, there not being a full attendance of the caucus, was that Republican senators having amendments to offer should present them to the Republican members of the finance committee and if the amendments are approved by the committee they are to be offered in the senate. If disapproved the senators presenting them are to have the right to submit them to the Republican caucus, which is to be called upon each schedule, if amendments to it are proposed. The finance committee is to hold sessions each evening for the purpose of hearing propositions from Republican senators and to decide upon the advisability of presenting such amendments in the senate.

The object of this proposition is to prevent the Republicans from dividing upon various schedules which might be presented. The necessity of this arrangement was developed by the debate and the various contentions of senators.

In the early part of the caucus Senator Aldrich was called upon for an explanation of the bill and some of the amendments. During the remarks Senator Culiom called for a statement on the sugar schedule, over which there had been so much controversy. The explanation presented was favorably received. The protection in the senate bill is 75 per cent and equalizes the high protection on low grades and high grades.

There was some discussion upon the length of time the bill should be under discussion in the senate. Senator Mason suggested that as soon as the opening speeches were made a move should be taken towards having a vote on the bill in two weeks. It was decided to ask that after the debate had run along for a week that the senate begin its sessions at 11 o'clock and sit until 5:30, and have evening sessions from 8 to 11 p. m.

A great deal of opposition was developed to the increased tax on beer and duty on tea. Senators Platt of New York, Hanna of Ohio and Spooner of Wisconsin were especially vigorous in their opposition to the increased tax on beer. It was pointed out that the Democrats had already stated their opposition to this tax and would make an effort to have the senate committee amendment eliminated. They thought it would be wise to have an arrangement effected which would relieve Republican senators of embarrassment. It was determined that effort should be made to secure the revenue, both from beer and tea, by a stamp tax, which would accomplish the same result.

Western senators referred to the wool schedules. Senator Warren of Wyoming, appearing as the spokesman for the woolgrowers of the west, said that the duties proposed by the committee were in his judgment inadequate and he thought there should be increases on the lines of amendments proposed by western senators.

Senator Lodge of Massachusetts spoke against the duty on hides, saying he did not see how he could avoid voting for an amendment, which proposed placing hides on the free list. This statement raised a storm among western men, who said that if such a method was proposed they would be compelled to vote for placing certain articles on the free list or for reducing the duty upon them.

They did not expect that the Democrats would vote with them to increase duties. The westerners announced that to settle with the eastern men, who voted to reduce duties on their products, they would vote to reduce the duty on articles which their people purchased and did not produce. It was this state of affairs that brought forth the proposition of Senator Burrows.

The question of abrogating the Hawaiian treaty caused a lively debate. Senator Aldrich stated that the committee intended to bring in an amendment to this portion of the bill. Senator Frye oppose the abrogation in the strongest possible terms, while Senator Nelson of Minnesota made a vigorous speech in support of the committee amendment, declaring the revenue from Hawaiian sugar would be greater than that which the committee expected to get from tea. He declared the admission of Hawaiian sugar free was in the interest of the sugar refiners, and the consumers received no benefit from it.

COURTESY TO A QUEEN

Presbyterians Sent Victoria Birthday Greetings.

JOHN WANAMAKER PROPOSED IT.

Fraternal Messages Received by the Assembly From the Meetings of Other Church Denominations—Reports From Different Committees.

EAGLE LAKE, Ind., May 25.—John Wanamaker's motion to congratulate the friend, though not believer, of Presbyterianism, the gracious old lady who rules the British nation, was received and passed with a hearty good will by the delegates of the Presbyterian general assembly.

The sessions of the general assembly were opened with devotional exercises, led by Elder Kiliaen Van Rensselaer of New York. By a general consent reference to the parliament tangle on Saturday regarding the Presbyterian building was omitted from the minutes. Fraternal greetings were received from the convention of the United Brethren at Toledo, Ia., and from the general assembly of the Southern Presbyterian church at Charlotte, N. C. Replies were authorized to these and greetings were sent to the Cumberland assembly and general synod of Reformed churches now in session.

The first regular order was the report of the board of missions to freedmen. The standing committee on this report reported through Dr. Thomas Lawrence, Asheville, N. C., chairman. After reviewing the work of the board resolutions were introduced commending the work and urging the board's claims on the 4,000 non-contributing churches and individual givers. Special stress was laid on the liability of endowments for Biddle university, Charlotte, N. C. The secretary of the board, Dr. Edward P. Cowan, Pittsburg, then addressed the assembly.

The second order was the report of the committee on home missions, appointed last year to confer with the board in New York in reference to the methods of the work and retrenchment of the expenses. It was presented by Dr. William P. Kane, Bloomington, Ill., and closed with recommendations "that the board of home missions be directed so to reorganize its methods of administration, the executive work shall be placed in charge of one secretary; that the expenditures be made upon the basis of the estimates made from the averages for several years preceding and that the policy of the board be to avoid debt. The proposed consolidation of treasuries in New York and Philadelphia was reported to be inexpedient. The committee asked to be continued and instructed "to consider the best methods of promoting harmony and co-operation between board of home missions and presbyteries and synods desiring to support and control their own work and to report to next assembly.

Discussion was made a special order for tomorrow at 4 o'clock.

During the session Hon. John Wanamaker was recognized and said: "Mr. Moderator, I rise to a question of privilege, believing that the assembly would like to be reminded that today is the anniversary of that most noble woman who reigns over the British kingdom. Inasmuch as the compact between Scotland and Ireland embraces the Westminster confession of faith and her majesty, the queen, attends the Presbyterian church while residing in Scotland, and in some measure belongs to our body, from whom all her Scottish chaplains are appointed, it seems meet that some notice should be taken of her birthday at this particular time, when the English nation celebrates her diamond jubilee. It has been well said of her that one does not know which to admire more, the queenliness of the woman or the womanliness of the queen."

Mr. Wanamaker introduced the following which the assembly ordered by a rising vote to be sent to the queen: "This day being the seventy-eighth anniversary of the birth and the sixtieth anniversary of the coronation of her most gracious majesty, Queen Victoria, whose reign has lasted longer than any other monarch in the last thousand years, this general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States of America deems it fitting and does hereby send most cordial Christian greetings to both the illustrious Christian sovereign and the subjects of her gentle, generous and righteous rule over the destinies of the empire upon which the sun never sets."

The consideration of the report of the board of education followed. On motion of the board the assembly resolved to place the limit of its grants to theological students at $50, even if this should result in cutting off some students from aid. The plan of the fifth year for theological students to be spent in practical work on the home mission field in voluntary service received the approval of the assembly. The second order was the discussion of reports on the Presbyterian building in New York. Dr. Duncan Brown, Tarkio, Mo., opened the debate. He offered a substitute for the reports before the assembly, leaving the disposal of the premises at Twelfth street and Fifth avenue, New York, to the action of the boards, expressing appreciation of the labors of the members of the same and advising the sale of the Twentieth street and Fifth avenue property. Dr. Wilson Phranner, member of the board of home missions, defended the majority report. He claimed that the rental of the building would soon cover the whole cost and that consequently it was a good investment. The speaker regretted to find a spirit of antagonism in the assembly and readiness to spread false rumors.

Several other speeches were made under the five-minute rule and without bringing out any new points. At the adjournment the discussion went over as unfinished business.

The annual union meeting of the woman's board of foreign missions was also held. Part of the session was devoted to suggestions as to foreign missionary work from ladies of the several boards and the speeches by some of the missionaries themselves.

A popular meeting in the interest of the work among freedmen was presided over by Hon. John Wanamaker.

DEBATE ON TOBACCO.

Use of It Considered by Reformed Presbyterian Synod.

PITTSBURG, May 25.—The session of the general synod of the Reformed Presbyterian church was opened by the Rev. David Steele of Philadelphia, who conducted the usual devotional exercises, consisting of a song service and prayer.

The first item of business was the report on foreign missions. Prof. M. Gaitley read the report, which was quite interesting, and held the attention of the meeting for nearly half an hour. It was received and conferred to the auditing committee.

Rev. R. W. Chestnut of Marissa, Ill., read the report of the committee on land fund. This fund is in the shape of a bequest given by Rev. Francis Land for the education of young men for the ministry. The report showed an expenditure of $725 and the number of young men benefited had been several hundred.

One recommendation was that all the students receive aid from this fund when expedient and attend the college at Cedarville, O. Another was that no student receive aid from the fund who uses tobacco or indulges in any extravagant habits.

Considerable discussion occurred over this recommendation. Dr. Steele of Philadelphia said he believed that in many instances tobacco was beneficial, especially to those suffering from asthma or throat trouble. He also said that many of the most prominent divines throughout the country were addicted to the tobacco habit.

Rev. W. J. Smiley spoke against the use of the weed. In the course of his remarks he said that every student should look higher, and that it was the duty of every man to do all they can to discourage the use of tobacco in all its forms.

The committee appointed to prepare a catalogue of the seminary reported that after careful consideration it had decided to postpone the work on the catalogue until the next regular meeting of the general synod.

Rev. R. W. Chestnut of Marissa read the report of the committee on Sunday schools. It was encouraging and showed the association in better shape than since its organization. The report was unanimously adopted.

The report of Samuel T. Kerr, treasurer of the theological seminary fund, showed a total expenditure of $3,490.06; balance in treasury of $1,024.67. The report was referred to the auditing committee.

The matter of granting the organization of a synod to the brethren in India was recommended and referred to the committee on records of India presbytery. A recommendation was made that $100 be appropriated for the education of students in India and $30 for medicines, all of which is to be taken from the Land fund.

The usual order of business was continued, such as hearing reports on foreign missions, etc. The Young People's association met and the reports of the different societies was made. An important event was the awarding of the three prizes offered last year. The first prize—a silver medal—was presented to the Christian Endeavor society of Marissa, Ill., it having contributed money at the rate of $5 per member. The second prize—a gold medal—was awarded to the Junior Christian Endeavors of Philadelphia, they having contributed $325, or $6 per member, and the third prize to the Philadelphia society.

VICTIMS OF WEYLER.

Calhoun Visiting the Starving in Cuba.

RUZ CASE RECONVENES TODAY.

The President Hopes to Make the $50,000 Go Farther by Spain Letting in Relief Products Duty Free—The Relief Resolution Signed.

HAVANA, May 25.—The Ruiz investigation will reconvene at Guanabacoa today.

United States Consul Brice at Matanzas, who came here on Saturday in response to the request of Consul General Lee, has returned there accompanied by General Lee, Mr. Calhoun and Mr. Fishback.

With Consul Brice they have personally visited the destitute victims of Captain General Weyler's policy of reconcentration in the suburbs of Matanzas at Jaruco and in other towns and villages along the railway line from Havana westward.

Mr. Calhoun intends taking various other trips into the interior during the coming week.

Captain General Weyler is at Placetas.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—The president, on the suggestion of Secretary Alger, is considering the plan of assigning an officer from the commissary department of the regular army to take charge of the assembling of relief supplies for Americans in Cuba. This department is trained into handling of supplies and has advantages in contracting for large quantities of necessities.

Through the good offices of the Spanish government, it is probable that, in the event it is decided to send food supplies to Cuba, in addition to the remittances of money, our government will be able to send much more than would be the case if duty were exacted upon the goods imported. An intimation has been given that such supplies will be admitted duty free. The importance of this remission can be perceived when it is realized that the duty on flour is $4.50 per barrel, or about its original cost. In other words, the $50,000 appropriation will be practically doubled in value by the saving of tariff deductions.

The resolution appropriating $50,000 for the relief of distressed American citizens in Cuba has been signed by the president.

He denounced Dr. Willis Westmoreland, the prominent Atlanta surgeon, who testified for the plaintiffs, and intimated that his inability to testify truthfully was due to his being hypnotized, conjured or infatuated by one of the litigants and that sooner or later Roland Reed would break Westmoreland's head, if he (Westmoreland) did not quit.

TARIFF UP AT LAST.

Aldrich Spoke on the Bill In Senate Today.

THE REPUBLICANS NOT AGREED.

Burrows, Fearing Many a Squabble Ahead, Had a Resolution Adopted by the Republican Caucus, Providing For Nightly Conferences on Schedules.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—The much-talked-of and much-delayed tariff bill was at last called up in the senate today by Senator Aldrich, who then spoke in advocacy of the measure and explained much of it in detail.

The Republican caucus emphasized the fact that there is a wide divergence of opinion among the Republican senators on rates of duty fixed in the various schedules of the tariff bill. If disapproved the senators presenting them are to have the right to submit them to the Republican caucus, which is to be called upon each schedule, if amendments to it are proposed. The finance committee is to hold sessions each evening for the purpose of hearing propositions from Republican senators and to decide upon the advisability of presenting such amendments in the senate.

The object of this proposition is to prevent the Republicans from dividing upon various schedules which might be presented. The necessity of this arrangement was developed by the debate and the various contentions of senators.

Western senators referred to the wool schedules. The question of abrogating the Hawaiian treaty caused a lively debate. Senator Aldrich stated that the committee intended to bring in an amendment to this portion of the bill. Senator Frye oppose the abrogation in the strongest possible terms, while Senator Nelson of Minnesota made a vigorous speech in support of the committee amendment, declaring the revenue from Hawaiian sugar would be greater than that which the committee expected to get from tea. He declared the admission of Hawaiian sugar free was in the interest of the sugar refiners, and the consumers received no benefit from it.

COURTESY TO A QUEEN

Presbyterians Sent Victoria Birthday Greetings.

JOHN WANAMAKER PROPOSED IT.

Fraternal Messages Received by the Assembly From the Meetings of Other Church Denominations—Reports From Different Committees.

EAGLE LAKE, Ind., May 25.—John Wanamaker's motion to congratulate the friend, though not believer, of Presbyterianism, the gracious old lady who rules the British nation, was received and passed with a hearty good will by the delegates of the Presbyterian general assembly.

The plan of the fifth year for theological students to be spent in practical work on the home mission field in voluntary service received the approval of the assembly. The second order was the discussion of reports on the Presbyterian building in New York. Dr. Duncan Brown, Tarkio, Mo., opened the debate. He offered a substitute for the reports before the assembly, leaving the disposal of the premises at Twelfth street and Fifth avenue, New York, to the action of the boards, expressing appreciation of the labors of the members of the same and advising the sale of the Twentieth street and Fifth avenue property. Dr. Wilson Phrazer, member of the board of home missions, defended the majority report. He claimed that the rental of the building would soon cover the whole cost and that consequently it was a good investment. The speaker regretted to find a spirit of antagonism in the assembly and readiness to spread false rumors.

Several other speeches were made under the five-minute rule and without bringing out any new points. At the adjournment the discussion went over as unfinished business.

The annual union meeting of the woman's board of foreign missions was also held. Part of the session was devoted to suggestions as to foreign missionary work from ladies of the several boards and the speeches by some of the missionaries themselves.

A popular meeting in the interest of the work among freedmen was presided over by Hon. John Wanamaker.

DEBATE ON TOBACCO.

Use of It Considered by Reformed Presbyterian Synod.

PITTSBURG, May 25.—The session of the general synod of the Reformed Presbyterian church was opened by the Rev. David Steele of Philadelphia, who conducted the usual devotional exercises, consisting of a song service and prayer.

The first item of business was the report on foreign missions. Prof. M. Gailey read the report, which was quite interesting, and held the attention of the meeting for nearly half an hour. It was received and conferred to the auditing committee.

Rev. R. W. Chestnut of Marissa, Ill., read the report of the committee on land fund. This fund is in the shape of a bequest given by Rev. Francis Land for the education of young men for the ministry. The report showed an expenditure of $725 and the number of young men benefited had been several hundred.

One recommendation was that all the students receive aid from this fund when expedient and attend the college at Cedarville, O. Another was that no student receive aid from the fund who uses tobacco or indulges in any extravagant habits.

Considerable discussion occurred over this recommendation. Dr. Steele of Philadelphia said he believed that in many instances tobacco was beneficial, especially to those suffering from asthma or throat trouble. He also said that many of the most prominent divines throughout the country were addicted to the tobacco habit.

Rev. W. J. Smiley spoke against the use of the weed. In the course of his remarks he said that every student should look higher, and that it was the duty of every man to do all they can to discourage the use of tobacco in all its forms.

The committee appointed to prepare a catalogue of the seminary reported that after careful consideration it had decided to postpone the work on the catalogue until the next regular meeting of the general synod.

Rev. R. W. Chestnut of Marissa read the report of the committee on Sunday schools. It was encouraging and showed the association in better shape than since its organization. The report was unanimously adopted.

The report of Samuel T. Kerr, treasurer of the theological seminary fund, showed a total expenditure of $3,490.06; balance in treasury of $1,024.67. The report was referred to the auditing committee.

The matter of granting the organization of a synod to the brethren in India was recommended and referred to the committee on records of India presbytery. A recommendation was made that $100 be appropriated for the education of students in India and $30 for medicines, all of which is to be taken from the Land fund.

The usual order of business was continued, such as hearing reports on foreign missions, etc. The Young People's association met and the reports of the different societies was made. An important event was the awarding of the three prizes offered last year. The first prize—a silver medal—was presented to the Christian Endeavor society of Marissa, Ill., it having contributed money at the rate of $5 per member. The second prize—a gold medal—was awarded to the Junior Christian Endeavorers of Philadelphia, they having contributed $328, or $6 per member, and the third prize to the Philadelphia society.

Smith of the American Flint Glassworkers' union, has sent out circulars to the trade announcing officially that, dating from Monday, May 24, all the factories of the United States Glass company in the country are open.

VICTIMS OF WEYLER.

Calhoun Visiting the Starving In Cuba.

RUZ CASE RECONVENES TODAY.

The President Hopes to Make the $50,000 Go Further by Spain Letting In Relief Products Duty Free—The Relief Resolution Signed.

HAVANA, May 25.—The Ruiz investigation will reconvene at Guanabacoa today.

United States Consul Brice at Matanzas, who came here on Saturday in response to the request of Consul General Lee, has returned there accompanied by General Lee, Mr. Calhoun and Mr. Fishback.

With Consul Brice they have personally visited the destitute victims of Captain General Weyler's policy of reconcentration in the suburbs of Matanzas at Jaruco and in other towns and villages along the railway line from Havana westward.

Mr. Calhoun intends taking various other trips into the interior during the coming week.

Captain General Weyler is at Place-tas.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—The president, on the suggestion of Secretary Alger, is considering the plan of assigning an officer from the commissary department of the regular army to take charge of the assembling of relief supplies for Americans in Cuba. This department is trained into handling of supplies and has advantages in contracting for large quantities of necessities.

Through the good offices of the Spanish government, it is probable that, in the event it is decided to send food supplies to Cuba, in addition to the remittances of money, our government will be able to send much more than would be the case if duty were exacted upon the goods imported. An intimation has been given that such supplies will be admitted duty free. The importance of this remission can be perceived when it is realized that the duty on flour is $4.50 per barrel, or about its original cost. In other words, the $50,000 appropriation will be practically doubled in value by the saving of tariff deductions.

The resolution appropriating $50,000 for the relief of distressed American citizens in Cuba has been signed by the president.

ATTACKED ACTOR REED.

Sensation In a Suit In the U. S. Court at Macon, Ga.

MACON, Ga., May 25.—In arguing for the defendant in the damage suit of Roland Reed against the Southern railway in the United States court, Attorney W. A. Henderson created a sensation by making a bitter attack on Reed, Miss Isadore Rush and Mrs. Meyers, the plaintiffs. He commented sarcastically on the relations existing between Reed and Miss Rush and characterized the suit as a "fraud that reeked to high heaven."

He denounced Dr. Willis Westmoreland, the prominent Atlanta surgeon, who testified for the plaintiffs, and intimated that his inability to testify truthfully was due to his being hypnotized, conjured or infatuated by one of the litigants and that sooner or later Roland Reed would break Westmoreland's head, if he (Westmoreland) did not quit.

Brief Session of Senate.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—The death of Senator Earle of South Carolina was referred to in eloquent terms in Chaplain Milburn's prayer in the senate. Following this Mr. Tillman of South Carolina made the formal announcement of Mr. Earle's death and offered a resolution expressing the profound sorrow of the senate. As a further mark of respect the senate adjourned.

The President Saves Romeyn.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—The president has remitted the sentence of dismissal imposed by courtmartial on Captain Romeyn, Fifth infantry, who after a sensational trial was convicted recently of assault on Lieutenant O'Brien at Fort McPherson, Ga., as he will retire June 1.

The Vanderbilts Invade Russia.

St. PETERSBURG, May 25.—The Odesky Listok of Odessa announces the coming arrival there of one of the Vanderbilts, who, according to that newspaper, is about to start big naphtha works at Baku-Russian Transcaucasia.

Senatorial Delegates Named.

LONDON, O., May 25.—Thirty-three delegates have been chosen to represent Madison county at the senatorial convention to be held in Urbana next Friday. The nomination is conceded to Clark county and the candidate will be Hon. John L. Plummer, who has no opposition.

McKinley Congratulated Victoria.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—The president has sent a cable message to Queen Victoria congratulating her on the celebration of her 79th birthday.

DECORATION DAY BALL

No Games Will Be Played Until After the Exercises.

A RUGBY TEAM PROJECTED

Preparations Being Made For the Fall. Practice Will Begin the Last of July. Lisbon Gains Two Liverpool Players. Picked Nines Play.

The Decoration day law in regard to ball games will have no effect this year, inasmuch as the games of the home team will be played in West Virginia. The grounds are fully two miles away from the speakers' stand, but the afternoon contest will not be started until after the exercises of the Grand Army are finished.

The Eclipse club have almost completed arrangements for the purchase of the uniforms worn by the Syracuse team last season.

Percy Baxter last week wrote a letter to this city stating that West Sunbury, Pa., was a very dry town. Yesterday afternoon his friends filled a big box with all the brewery signs they could find, inserted a package of tobacco and sent the bundle to him, collect on delivery.

Last evening the sporting column of the local dispenser of ancient history was filled principally with a report of the news published in the NEWS REVIEW last week. Perhaps, if it will but wake up, it will also discover that Mercer has won two games this season, instead of the one with which it credits him.

The Stars and Sunflowers played a game of indoor baseball at the Young Men's Christian association yesterday afternoon. The latter team won by a score of 15 to 13.

Engineers Kerry and Kelly yesterday afternoon laid out the South Side base ball diamond. The home plate was placed in position, and everything is in readiness for the game Thursday.

E. L. Brown, who played short last year for the Richards, is a member of the Duquesne team. He has many friends here.

Carson Finch and Will Carey will play on the Lisbon team, and have accepted positions in the tin mill at that place.

The Hilltops will play two games Decoration day at New Waterford.

The glasshouse team yesterday afternoon defeated a picked nine by a score of 14 to 6. McCurran and Emmerling, and Barker, McCurran and Emmerling were the batteries.

ASKED A NEW RECEIVER.

Another Move in the Affairs of the Brewer Company.

Arguments were heard in the circuit court in Cleveland for the removal of the receiver of the Brewer Pottery company, of Tiffin. F. A. Duggan, of Trenton, was appointed by an eastern judge, and the creditors objected.

S. B. Neath, said to be a creditor of the company and also a trustee of the company, asked that the receiver be removed and an Ohio man put in his place. The argument was made that the present receiver is the president of a rival concern, and also that it was not practical to conduct the business while he was 600 miles away. The judge withheld his decision until a future time.

SHOOTING SQUIRRELS.

The Game Laws Are Being Broken in St. Clair.

A party of young men who are said to live in the city have in recent days been hunting squirrels out on the hills of St. Clair township. They frequent the country near Little Beaver, and have already killed a number of squirrels. They were last seen there yesterday afternoon. Squirrels are just now protected by the game laws, and the matter has been reported to the deputy warden.

Netted a Neat Sum.

The social and May pole drill given by the Sunday school classes of Miss Reed and Miss Daly at Bradshaw hall last evening for the benefit of the Christian church, netted the promoters a neat sum. It will be given the trustees to be added to the building fund.

HOLDING HIM BACK.

Why an Enterprising Man Has No Chance to Become a Millionaire.

Blummer is one of our citizens who live well and do nothing. He toils not, neither does he spin, and yet he and his family live in comfort that is not many removes from luxury. This has subjected Blummer to adverse criticism, which fairly lacerates his sensitive feelings, and he unbosomed himself to a few friends the other evening while they were enjoying the good things he keeps on tap.

"There's not a lazy bone in my body," he began aggressively. "I'd rather work than eat, and I've always thought that I had a great business head on me. But the record's against me. My father set me up in a mercantile business, and when I had a balance struck at the end of a year there was not enough left to make a decent assignment. On his death I came into a handsome fortune, and I just thought I'd show my relatives how I had been misjudged by investing secretly in a great southern land scheme. I went down gleefully to look over my new purchase and gloat over my prospects. Most of my real estate was at the bottom of a lake, and what was on dry land wouldn't raise a hill of corn to the acre.

"My brother got me a nice position as traveling salesman, and I had sold whole carloads of goods at half price before the house could head me off. They told me that I must sell to hold my place, and that was what I was doing, but they discharged me so hard that I never got rightly over it. Mother bought me a farm, and again I started to astonish my folks by my business shrewdness. I traded the farm for the state right to a patent fence. All I got out of that was a judgment against me in an infringement case. Mother left me what I have now, with a proviso that I should forfeit everything if I tried to do business of any kind. That's why I have no chance to make myself a millionaire."—Detroit Free Press.

MELTED SNOW POWER.

Swiss Towns That Utilize the Mountain Streams.

Besides a considerable number of large water power installations Switzerland is full of small power plants, nearly every town in that land of mountains and waterfalls being well supplied with power from the 'white coal,' as the melting snow on the mountain sides has well been called. When there are no large streams, many small ones are impounded and collected in reservoirs on the hillsides, and it is rare to find a place of any size which is not well lighted by the power of some mountain stream.

At Montreux the electric tramway gets its power in this way, and from the old Roman town of Vevey to the mediaeval castle of Chillon one may ride in a trolley car propelled by the power of an insignificant little stream which may or may not be noticed when climbing up the hillsides just above.

The capabilities of this general utilization of natural power are beginning to be understood everywhere, and, with the appreciation of the possibility of the best methods of long distance transmission, the development of many mountain streams must surely come. There are innumerable streams, which, while very small, are yet very high, and these can with comparatively little difficulty be impounded and carried down many hundreds of feet, thus making up for their lack of volume by the great pressure readily obtainable, and, either by the use of electricity or compressed air, the power may be transmitted to many points of application with but little loss.—Cassier's Magazine.

Women Read Advertisements.

It is claimed, says the Philadelphia Press, that the women are the only readers of advertisements. In a measure this is true, and necessarily so, for women are the larger purchasers for the household and spend most of the money that is earned by business, professional and working men.

Even in the larger transactions it will probably surprise dealers to learn how influential a voice women have. The purchase of a home is almost invariably determined by the women of the household, and in nine cases out of ten their information as to the situation and desirability of a purchase is gained from the newspapers.

And every furniture dealer, dry goods dealer, groceryman and keeper of any sort of a store knows that he must appeal to the women if he wishes to sell his goods. One of the largest elements in the success of one of the greatest merchants in the world today is the fact that he knows how to appeal attractively through the advertisement to the woman.—Fourth Estate.

Luck.

"Do you think there is any luck in a four leaf clover?" asked the young woman.

"Well," replied Mr. Barker thoughtfully, "I can't trace the connection between any superstition and actual occurrences, but I knew a girl who was very lucky soon after she found a four leaf clover."

"Do tell me about it."

"There isn't much to tell. While she was hunting the four leaf clover she got her feet wet and caught a cold, and everybody said she was lucky that she didn't die."—Washington Star.

HAPPENED IN FRONT.

PLAYERS TELL OF FUNNY EXPERIENCES THEY HAVE HAD.

Effect Upon Actors of Interruptions From the Audience—The Man Who Sneezed. May Irwin and "The Widow Jones." Wanted Burr McIntosh to "Soak Him."

Players are affected almost as deeply by happenings in the audience as is the audience by happenings on the stage. Sometimes they are moved to wrath, but more frequently to laughter. Occasionally they are frightened out of their lines.

A man sat in an aisle seat, three rows from the front, at a performance of "El Capitan" the other night. He was a fat man, and he gave a sneeze suddenly—a terrific sneeze. It was followed by another that shook the plumes on the big hats of the women around and made the lights flicker. The audience suspended attention and looked at the sneezer, and the players paused just as he snorted out a third sneeze that ended in a high note such as seldom had been heard in those parts, though the Metropolitan Opera House is near by. El Capitan stretched out his long arms toward the man, rolled his big eyes heavenward and said in a sepulchral voice:

"Heaven bless you, sir."

This brought the audience back to the stage with a roar, and in a second the performance was running on at high pressure, while the fat man chuckled over the fact that for a brief space he had been the star of the evening. A few minutes later a Sun reporter asked Mr. Hopper how he was affected by the funny things that happen in the audience. After getting a grip on El Capitan's nose and throwing down a cup of hot coffee, as he does between acts, he answered:

"American audiences are not demonstrative, and as a rule things don't happen in front. Of course the man who sneezed tonight couldn't help it, but he made such a blasting success of it that it affected the whole house and therefore the players. If an actor is playing a part where he can say something, it is the best thing to do, for it makes them all laugh and keeps them from noticing a pause."

May Irwin is an actress with whom even metropolitan audiences take liberties. "People have a habit of calling to me from the audience when they want me to sing a special song or to recite something," she said the other evening. "One night a man in the body of the house called out to me to recite 'Hiawatha.' He took me off my feet for a minute. I couldn't remember a line of it, but I called back: 'I will if you'll give me my cue. I've forgotten how it starts.' He gave me the first line, and I shouted it for him."

"When I was playing the Widow Jones one night, during the kissing scene between Rice and myself a man shouted, 'I'd like to be in your place, Mr. Rice. I would.' Rice and I were both convulsed, and the audience roared. When the piece is funny, it often adds to the humorous situation for some one in front to do something unusual."

"I never shall forget an experience I had while playing the Widow in Cincinnati, though of course it isn't art for an actor to see anything that goes on in front or to recognize anybody in the audience, and I never do—I don't think. One night, as I was saying, in the city of cinders and beer, I noticed the queerest looking old woman down in front. She looked like a farmer's wife, and she kept peering up at me over her glasses. She didn't laugh once, and in all my life I never saw a human being take a play so seriously. She was with another woman who was equally serious. Finally the old woman jumped up and, peering at me over her glasses and shaking her finger in my face, said, with a rasping, western twang:

"Well, you don't look one bit like her."

"I was flustered, but I managed to gasp:

"Like whom?"

"Like the Widow Jones," she answered.

"Well, I am," said I.

"I don't believe a word you're saying," said she, "for I know'd the Widow Jones and her husband nigh on to 20 years ago. I stood up with 'em when they was hitched, and you don't look like her. She went off from these parts, and I heard she was a widow and that Jones was dead, and then I heard she was at this the-ater, and I cum to see. You ain't the Widow Jones, and I just want to say one thing more—I don't see how you dare to take other people's names and use 'em."

"With that she flounced out, but the next day when I appeared at a rehearsal she was on hand to give me another blast. I explained to her how it was. She'd never seen a play before and had come 20 miles to see her old friend, the Widow Jones. There was a time when such things frightened the life out of me, but I've learned to turn them to good account."

Perhaps there is not another man on the stage so phlegmatic as Burr McIntosh during unusual occurrences in front. He lays his coolness all to the training he got on the football field when he was at Princeton.

"I find more unexpected things happen on the stage than in the audience," said Mr. McIntosh. "However, the first night we opened in 'At Piney Ridge' I got a piece of advice from the front. I said to the villain, 'You lef' the colonel's baby up thar, an you brung yo' own down heah.' And his lines follow: 'You lie.' I instantly make a movement as if to strike him; but, remembering that ladies are present, my arm drops to my side. A man in front was so infuriated with the heartless villain that he called out to me: 'Soak him, Jack! Hit him a good one for hunk,' and then he hissed like a mad gander."—New York Sun.

Waltzes and "Why Not?"

I have been preaching for years that it is stupidly academical and pedantic to exclude such truly inspired pieces as Strauss' waltzes from the programmes of our symphony concerts, but against stupidity, as Schiller has remarked, the gods themselves fight in vain. A symphony is considered all right though it be the veriest trash, but a waltz that is a product of pure genius is tabooed unless it is smuggled into a symphony, as by Tschaiakowsky. What makes the situation the more peculiar is that pianists of the highest caliber never hesitate to insert waltzes by Chopin or Strauss on their programmes. But, then, pianists are their own bosses; they have no academic board of directors.

The taboo placed on the Strauss waltzes by the minor professional musicians who regulate orchestral concert affairs is seen in its full blooded asininity when we bear in mind how the greatest composers of our century have honored and admired Johann Strauss. To begin with the two antipodes, Brahms wrote on Mme. Strauss' fan the first bars of the "Blue Danube Waltz," with the words, "Not by Brahms, I regret to say." And Richard Wagner wrote in 1863 that "a single Strauss waltz surpasses in charm, refinement and genuine musical value most of the imported and often laboriously manufactured products of foreign musicians." It is often said that Wagner undervalued his contemporaries, but Liszt, Franz and Strauss are decided exceptions. Moskowski relates that once at a dinner Wagner proposed a toast "to all musical geniuses from Bach to Johann Strauss," and it is known that he often played his waltzes at Baireuth with more animation than skill. Liszt's admiration for Strauss was equally sincere, and his greatest pupil, Tausig, arranged some of these waltzes for piano, con amore.—Henry B. Fink in Looker On.

An Enthusiast.

"You can't comprehend what a genuine enthusiast is till you have known one as I have." This oracular declaration from the man of the world called for a story by way of evidence.

"When Tom Blummer and I were boys together, he was an enthusiast on the craze for gathering postage stamps. He wrote, advertised, hunted and would have walked across the continent for a rarity in his line. Suddenly he switched to dogs and had everything from a toy terrier to Great Danes. He had a canine herd that would crowd an acre of ground. They barked and howled and fought till he fell in love, and he was either courting, serenading, sending soft poetry or hanging around till the girl married him just to have peace."

"As the honeymoon waned he was seized with baseball enthusiasm. He would have faced a battery to get to a game. He yelled, jawed, bet, followed the club from spring till fall and was a noisy bleacher even in his sleep. The next turn of the crank made him a fisherman. Out of season he would sit in the back yard and make casts by the hour just to keep his hand in. There was never invented or suggested anything to lure the finny tribe that he did not have in his collection, which would fill a freight car. He could sit on a wet rock all day without winking and then go shining or trolling all night. Get him in a crowd and he'd have everybody talking fish inside of five minutes, and when he saw the Lone Fisherman he cheered till an usher got him out of the theater. Now he's a singer, and every house within a block of him is vacant. He has no more music in him than a blackbird, but he is an enthusiast."—Detroit Free Press.

Spider Silk.

Notwithstanding the failure commonly attending attempts hitherto made to obtain from spiders, gathered collectively for the purpose, an amount of silk sufficient for industrial uses, it is now claimed by M. Cambolle, a French naturalist, that the Madagascar species of this insect is susceptible of management capable of some practical results in this line. He has found that the spider of that country is capable of producing at the beginning of its work more than 100 yards of thread per hour, increasing in quantity until it actually produces more than 150 yards in that length of time. His experiments also show that this thread has about the consistency and strength of the thread yielded by the silkworm that is fed on mulberry leaves. A peculiar little machine winds the threads on bobbins as soon as it issues from the spider.—New York Sun.

The word "fie" or its equivalent is sound exists in all languages, and in every one is expressive of disgust. In the Icelandic the word "pfu!" means putridity.

Father Time has to halt when he meets a woman who knows how to take care of her health. Time can't make her seem old.

She may be the mother of a family; that makes no difference. She is bound to be young because her heart is young and there is rich, young blood circulating in her veins. She doesn't need cosmetics and face-powders and skin-preservers. Pure blood is the only true skin-preserver.

But when a woman's blood is full of bilious impurities, she can neither look young nor feel young. Her whole constitution is poisoned with bad blood. It permeates every part. It paralyzes the nerve-centres; weakens the stomach; irritates the heart, preys upon the lungs and bronchial tubes.

It reduces a woman to a state of weakness, nervousness, irritability, dejection and melancholy. Such a woman can't possibly be youthful, no matter what her age may be. She needs the youthfulness of highly vitalized blood. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will give it to her. It will help any woman to get back her youth and freshness again.

It gives the digestive and blood-making organs and the liver power to produce good, pure, healthy blood. It gives color to the cheeks, and sparkle to the eyes; drives away pimples and blotches; wipes away wrinkles; rounds out emaciated forms, and creates firm, natural, healthy flesh.

Mrs. Rebecca F. Gardner, of Grafton, York Co., Va., writes: "When I was married I weighed 125 pounds. I was taken sick and reduced in health and broke out with a disease which my doctor said was eczema. He treated my disease but failed to do me any good, and I fell away to 90 pounds. I began using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and thank God and you, I began to improve. Now I weigh 140 pounds and have only taken two bottles. I cannot say too much about the medicine. My husband says I look younger than I did the first time he saw me, 15 years ago."

HOME SECRETS.

East Liverpool Mothers Keep Them, but With a Little Light There Need be None.

How carefully mother guards the secrets of her boys and girls. At night, as she carefully tucks the bed-clothes around them, she chides and warns that mother will be angry if they repeat last night's offense, softly saying to herself, "It's only a habit, but I must break them of it." This is mother's mistake. The children cannot help it, and, sweet, clean, dry beds can be the resting place of every child when it is understood that the cause is not a habit, but a weakness that can be cured. Active life of the little ones tends to weakening the kidneys, and weak kidneys means inability to retain the urine. This is a condition, not a habit, and should have the same prompt attention you would give to the marked symptoms of any disease. One Doan's Kidney Pills taken twice a day and at bedtime will strengthen the kidneys of a child, and in a short time there will be no cause to scold, for the so-called habit will disappear promptly.

Here's an Ashtabula mother that adds her indorsement to our words:

Mrs. E. O. Cruea, residing at 239 Prospect street, says: "I got Doan's Kidney Pills for my little boy, thirteen years of age, who has been, since he was nine years old, troubled with a weakness of the urinary organs. At that time he was taken with spasms that physicians attributed to worms. These were checked in time, but his kidneys did not regain their strength, and non-retention of urine while sleeping has embarrassed the little fellow very much and caused very much annoyance to me. We have had him treated by physicians without his obtaining any relief in that particular way, and you can realize how pleased we are to be able to check it by using Doan's Kidney Pills. Immediately we began his kidneys grew stronger. I know that there are many children that way, and that mothers would be only too glad to learn of a cure. I can, without any hesitancy, recommend those pills for that, and you may refer to me in that respect."

Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers. Price, 50 cents per box, or six boxes for $2.50. Sent by mail on receipt of price, by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

The Stars and Sunflowers played a game of indoor baseball at the Young Men's Christian association yesterday afternoon. The latter team won by a score of 15 to 13.

Engineers Kerry and Kelly yesterday afternoon laid out the South Side base ball diamond. The home plate was placed in position, and everything is in readiness for the game Thursday.

E. L. Brown, who played short last year for the Richards, is a member of the Duquense team. He has many friends here.

Carson Finch and Will Carey will play on the Lisbon team, and have accepted positions in the tin mill at that place.

The Hilltops will play two games Decoration day at New Waterford.

The glasshouse team yesterday afternoon defeated a picked nine by a score of 14 to 6. McCurran and Emmerling, and Barker, McCurran and Emmerling were the batteries.

George Simms has already commenced the organization of a football team, and expects to start practice in July. The team will lineup: Snediker, center; Wagner, right guard; Pollock, center guard; Carnahan, right tackle; Davis, left tackle; T. McLane, right end; H. McCurran, left end; Simms, quarter back; W. Gosset, left halfback; D. McLane, right halfback; D. McCurran fullback. M. C. Lilby, an ex-Yale coach, will be secured. The team will be a good one.

ASKED A NEW RECEIVER.

Another Move In the Affairs of the Brewer Company.

Arguments were heard in the circuit court in Cleveland for the removal of the receiver of the Brewer Pottery company, of Tiffin. F. A. Duggan, of Trenton, was appointed by an eastern judge, and the creditors objected.

S. B. Neath, said to be a creditor of the company and also a trustee of the company, asked that the receiver be removed and an Ohio man put in his place. The argument was made that the present receiver is the president of a rival concern, and also that it was not practical to conduct the business while he was 600 miles away. The judge withheld his decision until a future time.

SHOOTING SQUIRRELS.

The Game Laws Are Being Broken In St. Clair.

A party of young men who are said to live in the city have in recent days been hunting squirrels out on the hills of St. Clair township. They frequent the country near Little Beaver, and have already killed a number of squirrels. They were last seen there yesterday afternoon. Squirrels are just now protected by the game laws, and the matter has been reported to the deputy warden.

Netted a Neat Sum.

The social and May pole drill given by the Sunday school classes of Miss Reed and Miss Daly at Bradshaw hall last evening for the benefit of the Christian church, netted the promoters a neat sum. It will be given the trustees to be added to the building fund.

HOLDING HIM BACK.

Why an Enterprising Man Has No Chance to Become a Millionaire.

Blummer is one of our citizens who live well and do nothing. He toils not, neither does he spin, and yet he and his family live in comfort that is not many removes from luxury. This has subjected Blummer to adverse criticism, which fairly lacerates his sensitive feelings, and he unobtrusively himself to a few friends the other evening while they were enjoying the good things he keeps on tap.

"There's not a lazy bone in my body," he began aggressively. "I'd rather work than eat, and I've always thought that I had a great business head on me. But the record's against me. My father set me up in a mercantile business, and when I had a balance struck at the end of a year there was not enough left to make a decent assignment. On his death I came into a handsome fortune, and I just thought I'd show my relatives how I had been misjudged by investing secretly in a great southern land scheme. I went down gleefully to look over my new purchase and gloat over my prospects. Most of my real estate was at the bottom of a lake, and what was on dry land wouldn't raise a hill of corn to the acre."

"My brother got me a nice position as traveling salesman, and I had sold whole carloads of goods at half price before the house could head me off. They told me that I must sell to hold my place, and that was what I was doing, but they discharged me so hard that I never got rightly over it. Mother bought me a farm, and again I started to astonish my folks by my business shrewdness. I traded the farm for the state right to a patent fence. All I got out of that was a judgment against me in an infringement case. Mother left me what I have now, with a proviso that I should forfeit everything if I tried to do business of any kind. That's why I have no chance to make myself a millionaire."—Detroit Free Press.

MELTED SNOW POWER.

Swiss Towns That Utilize the Mountain Streams.

Besides a considerable number of large water power installations Switzerland is full of small power plants, nearly every town in that land of mountains and waterfalls being well supplied with power from the "white coal," as the melting snow on the mountain sides has well been called. When there are no large streams, many small ones are impounded and collected in reservoirs on the hillsides, and it is rare to find a place of any size which is not well lighted by the power of some mountain stream.

At Montreux the electric tramway gets its power in this way, and from the old Roman town of Vevey to the mediaeval castle of Chillon one may ride in a trolley car propelled by the power of an insignificant little stream which may or may not be noticed when climbing up the hillsides just above.

The capabilities of this general utilization of natural power are beginning to be understood everywhere, and, with the appreciation of the possibility of the best methods of long distance transmission, the development of many mountain streams must surely come. There are innumerable streams, which, while very small, are yet very high, and these can with comparatively little difficulty be impounded and carried down many hundreds of feet, thus making up for their lack of volume by the great pressure readily obtainable, and, either by the use of electricity or compressed air, the power may be transmitted to many points of application with but little loss.—Cassier's Magazine.

Women Read Advertisements.

It is claimed, says the Philadelphia Press, that the women are the only readers of advertisements. In a measure this is true, and necessarily so, for women are the larger purchasers for the household and spend most of the money that is earned by business, professional and working men.

Even in the larger transactions it will probably surprise dealers to learn how influential a voice women have. The purchase of a home is almost invariably determined by the women of the household, and in nine cases out of ten their information as to the situation and desirability of a purchase is gained from the newspapers.

And every furniture dealer, dry goods dealer, groceryman and keeper of any sort of a store knows that he must appeal to the women if he wishes to sell his goods. One of the largest elements in the success of one of the greatest merchants in the world today is the fact that he knows how to appeal attractively through the advertisement to the woman.—Fourth Estate.

Luck.

"Do you think there is any luck in a four leaf clover?" asked the young woman.

"Well," replied Mr. Barker thoughtfully, "I can't trace the connection between any superstition and actual occurrences, but I knew a girl who was very lucky soon after she found a four leaf clover."

"Do tell me about it."

"There isn't much to tell. While she was hunting the four leaf clover she got her feet wet and caught a cold, and everybody said she was lucky that she didn't die."—Washington Star.

HAPPENED IN FRONT.

PLAYERS TELL OF FUNNY EXPERIENCES THEY HAVE HAD.

Effect Upon Actors of Interruptions From the Audience—The Man Who Sneezed. May Irwin and "The Widow Jones." Wanted Burr McIntosh to "Soak Him."

Players are affected almost as deeply by happenings in the audience as is the audience by happenings on the stage. Sometimes they are moved to wrath, but more frequently to laughter. Occasionally they are frightened out of their lines.

A man sat in an aisle seat, three rows from the front, at a performance of "El Capitan" the other night. He was a fat man, and he gave a sneeze suddenly—a terrific sneeze. It was followed by another that shook the plumes on the big hats of the women around and made the lights flicker. The audience suspended attention and looked at the sneezer, and the players paused just as he snorted out a third sneeze that ended in a high note such as seldom had been heard in those parts, though the Metropolitan Opera House is near by. El Capitan stretched out his long arms toward the man, rolled his big eyes heavenward and said in a sepulchral voice:

"Heaven bless you, sir."

This brought the audience back to the stage with a roar, and in a second the performance was running on at high pressure, while the fat man chuckled over the fact that for a brief space he had been the star of the evening. A few minutes later a Sun reporter asked Mr. Hopper how he was affected by the funny things that happen in the audience. After getting a grip on El Capitan's nose and throwing down a cup of hot coffee, as he does between acts, he answered:

"American audiences are not demonstrative, and as a rule things don't happen in front. Of course the man who sneezed tonight couldn't help it, but he made such a blasting success of it that it affected the whole house and therefore the players. If an actor is playing a part where he can say something, it is the best thing to do, for it makes them all laugh and keeps them from noticing a pause."

May Irwin is an actress with whom even metropolitan audiences take liberties. "People have a habit of calling to me from the audience when they want me to sing a special song or to recite something," she said the other evening. "One night a man in the body of the house called out to me to recite 'Hiawatha.' He took me off my feet for a minute. I couldn't remember a line of it, but I called back: 'I will if you'll give me my cue. I've forgotten how it starts.' He gave me the first line, and I shouted it for him."

"When I was playing the Widow Jones one night, during the kissing scene between Rice and myself a man shouted, 'I'd like to be in your place, Mr. Rice. I would.' Rice and I were both convulsed, and the audience roared. When the piece is funny, it often adds to the humorous situation for some one in front to do something unusual."

"I never shall forget an experience I had while playing the Widow in Cincinnati, though of course it isn't art for an actor to see anything that goes on in front or to recognize anybody in the audience, and I never do—I don't think. One night, as I was saying, in the city of cinders and beer, I noticed the queerest looking old woman down in front. She looked like a farmer's wife, and she kept peering up at me over her glasses. She didn't laugh once, and in all my life I never saw a human being take a play so seriously. She was with another woman who was equally serious. Finally the old woman jumped up and, peering at me over her glasses and shaking her finger in my face, said, with a rasping, western twang:

"Well, you don't look one bit like her."

"I was flustered, but I managed to gasp:

"Like whom?"

"'The Widow Jones,' she answered."

"Well, I am," said I.

"I don't believe a word you're saying," said she, "for I know'd the Widow Jones and her husband nigh on to 20 years ago. I stood up with 'em when they was hitched, and you don't look like her. She went off from these parts, and I heard she was a widow and that Jones was dead, and then I heard she was at this the-ater, and I cum to see. You ain't the Widow Jones, and I just want to say one thing more—I don't see how you dare to take other people's names and use 'em."

"With that she flounced out, but the next day when I appeared at a rehearsal she was on hand to give me another blast. I explained to her how it was. She'd never seen a play before and had come 20 miles to see her old friend, the Widow Jones. There was a time when such things frightened the life out of me, but I've learned to turn them to good account."

Perhaps there is not another man on the stage so phlegmatic as Burr McIntosh during unusual occurrences in front. He lays his coolness all to the training he got on the football field when he was at Princeton.

"I find more unexpected things happen on the stage than in the audience," said Mr. McIntosh. "However, the first night we opened in 'At Piney Ridge' I got a piece of advice from the front. I said to the villain, 'You left the colonel's baby up thar, an you brung yo' own down heah.' And his lines follow: 'You lie.' I instantly make a movement as if to strike him; but, remembering that ladies are present, my arm drops to my side. A man in front was so infuriated with the heartless villain that he called out to me: 'Soak him, Jack! Hit him a good one for hunk,' and then he hissed like a mad gander."—New York Sun.

Waltzes and "Why Not?"

I have been preaching for years that it is stupidly academical and pedantic to exclude such truly inspired pieces as Strauss' waltzes from the programmes of our symphony concerts, but against stupidity, as Schiller has remarked, the gods themselves fight in vain. A symphony is considered all right though it be the veriest trash, but a waltz that is a product of pure genius is tabooed unless it is smuggled into a symphony, as by Tchaikowsky. What makes the situation the more peculiar is that pianists of the highest caliber never hesitate to insert waltzes by Chopin or Strauss on their programmes. But, then, pianists are their own bosses; they have no academic board of directors.

The taboo placed on the Strauss waltzes by the minor professional musicians who regulate orchestral concert affairs is seen in its full blooded asininity when we bear in mind how the greatest composers of our century have honored and admired Johann Strauss. To begin with the two antipodes, Brahms wrote on Mme. Strauss' fan the first bars of the "Blue Danube Waltz," with the words, "Not by Brahms, I regret to say." And Richard Wagner wrote in 1863 that "a single Strauss waltz surpasses in charm, refinement and genuine musical value most of the imported and often laboriously manufactured products of foreign musicians." It is often said that Wagner undervalued his contemporaries, but Liszt, Franz and Strauss are decided exceptions. Moskowski relates that once at a dinner Wagner proposed a toast "to all musical geniuses from Bach to Johann Strauss," and it is known that he often played his waltzes at Baireuth with more animation than skill. Liszt's admiration for Strauss was equally sincere, and his greatest pupil, Tausig, arranged some of these waltzes for piano, con amore.—Henry B. Fink in Looker On.

An Enthusiast.

"You can't comprehend what a genuine enthusiast is till you have known one as I have." This oracular declaration from the man of the world called for a story by way of evidence.

"When Tom Blumber and I were boys together, he was an enthusiast on the craze for gathering postage stamps. He wrote, advertised, hunted and would have walked across the continent for a rarity in his line. Suddenly he switched to dogs and had everything from a toy terrier to Great Danes. He had a canine herd that would crowd an acre of ground. They barked and howled and fought till he fell in love, and he was either courting, serenading, sending soft poetry or hanging around till the girl married him just to have peace."

"As the honeymoon waned he was seized with baseball enthusiasm. He would have faced a battery to get to a game. He yelled, jawed, bet, followed the club from spring till fall and was a noisy bleacher even in his sleep. The next turn of the crank made him a fisherman. Out of season he would sit in the back yard and make casts by the hour just to keep his hand in. There was never invented or suggested anything to lure the finny tribe that he did not have in his collection, which would fill a freight car. He could sit on a wet rock all day without winking and then go shining or trolling all night. Get him in a crowd and he'd have everybody talking fish inside of five minutes, and when he saw the Lone Fisherman he cheered till an usher got him out of the theater. Now he's a singer, and every house within a block of him is vacant. He has no more music in him than a blackbird, but he is an enthusiast."—Detroit Free Press.

Spider Silk.

Notwithstanding the failure commonly attending attempts hitherto made to obtain from spiders, gathered collectively for the purpose, an amount of silk sufficient for industrial uses, it is now claimed by M. Cambolle, a French naturalist, that the Madagascar species of this insect is susceptible of management capable of some practical results in this line. He has found that the spider of that country is capable of producing at the beginning of its work more than 100 yards of thread per hour, increasing in quantity until it actually produces more than 150 yards in that length of time. His experiments also show that this thread has about the consistency and strength of the thread yielded by the silkworm that is fed on mulberry leaves. A peculiar little machine winds the threads on bobbins as soon as it issues from the spider.—New York Sun.

The word "fie" or its equivalent in sound exists in all languages, and in every one is expressive of disgust. In the Icelandic the word "pfu!" means putridity.

Father Time has to halt when he meets a woman who knows how to take care of her health. Time can't make her seem old.

She may be the mother of a family; that makes no difference. She is bound to be young because her heart is young and there is rich, young blood circulating in her veins. She doesn't need cosmetics and face-powders and skin-preservers. Pure blood is the only true skin-preserver.

But when a woman's blood is full of bilious impurities, she can neither look young nor feel young. Her whole constitution is poisoned with bad blood. It permeates every part. It paralyzes the nerve-centres; weakens the stomach; irritates the heart, preys upon the lungs and bronchial tubes.

It reduces a woman to a state of weakness, nervousness, irritability, dejection and melancholy. Such a woman can't possibly be youthful, no matter what her age may be. She needs the youthfulness of highly vitalized blood. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will give it to her. It will help any woman to get back her youth and freshness again.

It gives the digestive and blood-making organs and the liver power to produce good, pure, healthy blood. It gives color to the cheeks, and sparkle to the eyes; drives away pimples and blotches; wipes away wrinkles; rounds out emaciated forms, and creates firm, natural, healthy flesh.

Mrs. Rebecca F. Gardner, of Grafton, York Co., Va., writes: "When I was married I weighed 125 pounds. I was taken sick and reduced in health and broke out with a disease which my doctor said was eczema. He treated my disease but failed to do me any good, and I fell away to 90 pounds. I began using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and thank God and you, I began to improve. Now I weigh 140 pounds and have only taken two bottles. I cannot say too much about the medicine. My husband says I look younger than I did the first time he saw me, 15 years ago."

HOME SECRETS.

East Liverpool Mothers Keep Them, but With a Little Light There Need be None.

How carefully mother guards the secrets of her boys and girls. At night, as she carefully tucks the bed-clothes around them, she chides and warns that mother will be angry if they repeat last night's offense, softly saying to herself, "It's only a habit, but I must break them of it." This is mother's mistake. The children cannot help it, and sweet, clean, dry beds can be the resting place of every child when it is understood that the cause is not a habit, but a weakness that can be cured. Active life of the little ones tends to weakening the kidneys, and weak kidneys means inability to retain the urine. This is a condition, not a habit, and should have the same prompt attention you would give to the marked symptoms of any disease. One Doan's Kidney Pills taken twice a day and at bedtime will strengthen the kidneys of a child, and in a short time there will be no cause to scold, for the so-called habit will disappear promptly.

Here's an Ashtabula mother that adds her endorsement to our words:

Mrs. E. O. Cruea, residing at 239 Prospect street, says: "I got Doan's Kidney Pills for my little boy, thirteen years of age, who has been, since he was nine years old, troubled with a weakness of the urinary organs. At that time he was taken with spasms that physicians attributed to worms. These were checked in time, but his kidneys did not regain their strength, and non-retention of urine while sleeping has embarrassed the little fellow very much and caused very much annoyance to me. We have had him treated by physicians without his obtaining any relief in that particular way, and you can realize how pleased we are to be able to check it by using Doan's Kidney Pills. Immediately we began his kidneys grew stronger. I know that there are many children that way, and that mothers would be only too glad to learn of a cure. I can, without any hesitancy, recommend those pills for that, and you may refer to me in that respect."

Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers. Price, 50 cents per box, or six boxes for $2.50. Sent by mail on receipt of price, by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Wellsville was overwhelmed with circuses yesterday, and for a time it seemed as though there would be trouble.

McCormick's Silver Plated shows came in by boat and Norton & Jones arrived over the Cleveland and Pittsburg. The different aggregations pitched their tents side by side on the creek bottom, and then French's Sensation appeared on the Ohio with its steam caliope, but it did not tie up until it reached Eighteenth street. Each manager stated to the NEWS REVIEW that he had the hottest show on the road, and immediately began to cut prices until the waiting crowd was almost presented with tickets of admission. The parades attracted more attention than if the shows had really amounted to something. At one time it looked as though the different crowds would come to blows so sharp was the competition, but they remained at peace.

A Bible Sled.

A friend of the Listener saw a funny sight down in Maine. At a place there, which needn't be named, there lives a small boy named Jonathan Longfellow, who is a third or fourth cousin of the poet, and he is a great boy too. One day this friend of the Listener was driving past young Jonathan's house and saw the boy engaged at a little distance in sliding down hill on the slippery crust on something that was not a sled. What could it be? Evidently the scrutiny of the passerby was observed by the boy, for he stopped his coasting and called out amiably, "I'm sliding down hill on the Bible." And it was the fact too. He had got the smooth, leather bound family Bible, containing the generations of all the Longfellow, and was coasting on it with magnificent success.—Boston Transcript.

CRITICIZED ROCKEFELLER.

A Missionary Raised a Breeze at a Baptist Anniversary.

PITTSBURG, May 25.—After devotional exercises, conducted by Rev. Emory W. Hunt of Ohio, the thirty-third anniversary of the American Baptist Missionary union began in the Fourth Avenue Baptist church.

Following the treasurer's report Rev. W. H. Cossum, a missionary from China, said: "I am opposed to retrenchment. I was sent to China to work, and you can't retrench me. You cannot retard the work by retrenchment in the way of giving us less aid. Forward is the cry, not retrenchment. Advance, not retreat."

"I say to John D. Rockefeller, or to any man who offers us money—first consecrate yourself to God, make your gift clean and we will accept it, otherwise we should not touch it. I do not say this about John D. Rockefeller particularly or alone, but to all who make such offers."

"Consecrate yourselves to God, and thus consecrate your gifts, but otherwise the gifts are unclean and should be spurned."

These words caused profound surprise, and for a moment there was a painful silence, and then there was scattering applause.

Continuing, the speaker said: "I know I am not voicing the sentiment of the majority of those present, but I am not working for them, and am bold enough to voice my sentiments."

Rev. Kennard said: "I agree with the last speaker. The supreme thing is holiness with God, and I say bring your gifts clean to God. First be consecrated to God. But I further say, 'Judge not that ye be not judged.' There is one man in the Baptist church who has been consecrated to God, with whom I have knelt in prayer and humble confession to God, whom I have heard pray at the family altar, and I know him to be a Christian, and that man is John D. Rockefeller. This was greeted with hearty and continued applause."

The chairman dismissed the matter by saying: "When our brother has been longer in this country and becomes better acquainted he will modify his views."

Rev. Mr. Duncan said: "I think there should be a public and decided disapproval of the imputations cast on the societies and a man whom I know to be a Christian man. We who know him, know that no such imputation should be cast on him. We have known him to be a consecrated Christian and should resent any such imputation."

Rev. Messrs. Morehouse, General Thomas J. Morgan and many others spoke in a similar vein.

Dr. J. S. Grant, also of China, said he thought Mr. Cossum did not refer to Mr. Rockefeller in person, but was speaking generally on clean gifts. No formal action was taken.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Henry F. Colby, D. D. of Ohio.

The report of the executive committee was read by the foreign secretary, Samuel W. Duncan, D. D. Among other things the report said:

"Financial retrenchment, famine, national commotions and popular unrest have all characterized the course of the missions for the past year, but, praise be to God, every disaster seems to be unable to check the progress of the gospel among the heathen. Although the appropriations of the Missionary union have been largely reduced, and the number of missionaries from America has fallen from 472 to 452, every essential feature of the missionary work shows a large and gratifying increase. Preachers, 130; churches, 96; members, 5,218; Sunday school scholars, 7,936."

In 1896 there were 1,820 missions and 11,725 persons were baptized. There were 200,236 members and $359,663 was contributed by churches.

The report of the treasurer shows that he received $467,101.89 from the following sources: Donations, $258,298.95; legacies, $45,740.59; woman's society of the east, $75,985.23; woman's society of the west, $30,770.13; woman's society of California, $1,766.43; woman's society of Oregon, $385; Bible day collection, $1,321.44; additions to permanent funds and bond accounts, $15,140; income on funds, $36,322.66; Gordon memorial fund, $558.82; rent of mission property in Siam, $812.64.

The expenditures were as follows: Appropriations for the year 1896-97, $580,855.58; added to permanent funds and bond accounts, $15,140; debt April 1, 1896, $163,827.63, a total of $759,823.21, leaving the debt April 1, 1897, $292,791.32.

Of the $580,855.58 appropriated for the year, $494,537.86 was for the various missions, $2,737.08 for publication, $19,504.40 for annuities, $26,810.95 for district secretaries and agencies, $21,749.50 for executive officers, $11,233.82 for general expenses and $4,281.86 for interest account.

In addition to the $452,061.89 there was added to the permanent funds and those on which annuities are paid $15,140, making the gross receipts of the year $467,201.89. This made the amount found to be needed when the books of both societies were closed really $225,000.

TENTS PITCHED SIDE BY SIDE

It Looked as Though There Might Be More or Less Trouble—A Showman's Woes. He Got His Money and Went on His Way—The News of Wellsville.

Wellsville was overwhelmed with circuses yesterday, and for a time it seemed as though there would be trouble.

McCormick's Silver Plated shows came in by boat and Norton & Jones arrived over the Cleveland and Pittsburgh. The different aggregations pitched their tents side by side on the creek bottom, and then French's Sensation appeared on the Ohio with its steam caliope, but it did not tie up until it reached Eighteenth street. Each manager stated to the NEWS REVIEW that he had the hottest show on the road, and immediately began to cut prices until the waiting crowd was almost presented with tickets of admission. The parades attracted more attention than if the shows had really amounted to something. At one time it looked as though the different crowds would come to blows so sharp was the competition, but they remained at peace.

A Bible Sled.

A friend of the Listener saw a funny sight down in Maine. At a place there, which needn't be named, there lives a small boy named Jonathan Longfellow, who is a third or fourth cousin of the poet, and he is a great boy too. One day this friend of the Listener was driving past young Jonathan's house and saw the boy engaged at a little distance in sliding down hill on the slippery crust on something that was not a sled. What could it be? Evidently the scrutiny of the passerby was observed by the boy, for he stopped his coasting and called out amiably, "I'm sliding down hill on the Bible." And it was the fact too. He had got the smooth, leather bound family Bible, containing the generations of all the Longfellow, and was coasting on it with magnificent success.—Boston Transcript.

CRITICIZED ROCKEFELLER.

A Missionary Raised a Breeze at a Baptist Anniversary.

PITTSBURG, May 25.—After devotional exercises, conducted by Rev. Emory W. Hunt of Ohio, the thirty-third anniversary of the American Baptist Missionary union began in the Fourth Avenue Baptist church.

Following the treasurer's report Rev. W. H. Cossum, a missionary from China, said: "I am opposed to retrenchment. I was sent to China to work, and you can't retrench me. You cannot retard the work by retrenchment in the way of giving us less aid. Forward is the cry, not retrenchment. Advance, not retreat."

"I say to John D. Rockefeller, or to any man who offers us money—first consecrate yourself to God, make your gift clean and we will accept it, otherwise we should not touch it. I do not say this about John D. Rockefeller particularly or alone, but to all who make such offers."

"Consecrate yourselves to God, and thus consecrate your gifts, but otherwise the gifts are unclean and should be spurned."

These words caused profound surprise, and for a moment there was a painful silence, and then there was scattering applause.

Continuing, the speaker said: "I know I am not voicing the sentiment of the majority of those present, but I am not working for them, and am bold enough to voice my sentiments."

Rev. Kennard said: "I agree with the last speaker. The supreme thing is holiness with God, and I say bring your gifts clean to God. First be consecrated to God. But I further say, 'Judge not that ye be not judged.' There is one man in the Baptist church who has been consecrated to God, with whom I have knelt in prayer and humble confession to God, whom I have heard pray at the family altar, and I know him to be a Christian, and that man is John D. Rockefeller. This was greeted with hearty and continued applause."

The chairman dismissed the matter by saying: "When our brother has been longer in this country and becomes better acquainted he will modify his views."

Rev. Mr. Duncan said: "I think there should be a public and decided disapproval of the imputations cast on the societies and a man whom I know to be a Christian man. We who know him, know that no such imputation should be cast on him. We have known him to be a consecrated Christian and should resent any such imputation."

Rev. Messrs. Morehouse, General Thomas J. Morgan and many others spoke in a similar vein.

Dr. J. S. Grant, also of China, said he thought Mr. Cossum did not refer to Mr. Rockefeller in person, but was speaking generally on clean gifts. No formal action was taken.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Henry F. Colby, D. D. of Ohio.

The report of the executive committee was read by the foreign secretary, Samuel W. Duncan, D. D. Among other things the report said:

"Financial retrenchment, famine, national commotions and popular unrest have all characterized the course of the missions for the past year, but, praise be to God, every disaster seems to be unable to check the progress of the gospel among the heathen. Although the appropriations of the Missionary union have been largely reduced, and the number of missionaries from America has fallen from 472 to 452, every essential feature of the missionary work shows a large and gratifying increase. Preachers, 130; churches, 96; members, 5,218; Sunday school scholars, 7,936."

In 1896 there were 1,820 missions and 11,725 persons were baptized. There were 200,236 members and $359,663 was contributed by churches.

The report of the treasurer shows that he received $467,101.89 from the following sources: Donations, $258,298.95; legacies, $45,740.59; woman's society of the east, $75,985.23; woman's society of the west, $30,770.13; woman's society of California, $1,766.43; woman's society of Oregon, $385; Bible day collection, $1,321.44; additions to permanent funds and bond accounts, $15,140; income on funds, $36,322.66; Gordon memorial fund, $558.82; rent of mission property in Siam, $812.64.

The expenditures were as follows: Appropriations for the year 1896-97, $580,855.58; added to permanent funds and bond accounts, $15,140; debt April 1, 1896, $163,827.63, a total of $759,823.21, leaving the debt April 1, 1897, $292,791.32.

Of the $580,855.58 appropriated for the year, $194,537.86 was for the various missions, $2,737.08 for publication, $19,504.40 for annuities, $26,810.95 for district secretaries and agencies, $21,749.50 for executive officers, $11,233.82 for general expenses and $4,281.86 for interest account.

In addition to the $452,061.89 there was added to the permanent funds and those on which annuities are paid $15,140, making the gross receipts of the year $467,201.89. This made the amount found to be needed when the books of both societies were closed really $225,000.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., TUESDAY, MAY 25

The senators took up the tariff bill to-day. Let us hope they will drop it within reasonable time.

When Uncle Sam says a word in defense of Cuba, Spain immediately sends forth a bluff that would put to shame a western cowboy.

The Toledo Blade would kill off the frog as the city's emblem and asks suggestions for a new coat of arms. What is the matter with a bar of music?

If the senate long delays the passage of the tariff law importations will cease because all the warehouses of Boston, New York and Philadelphia will have been filled.

The Republican senators should get together on the tariff. They cannot expect to ever bring about the passage of the bill unless they stand shoulder to shoulder, a united line facing the foe.

The public library is in need of funds. Incidentally it needs books. These are wants the people of East Liverpool should fill. An institution such as is the library should not be permitted to fail for want of support.

Ohio Democrats are not now forming a beautiful set piece emblematic of harmony. Millionaire John Thomas is after Millionaire John McLean, and when the convention meets there will be war to the knife, and a big knife too.

The belief that United States senators should be elected by the direct vote of the people in gaining ground. Even in the east its supporters are constantly increasing. It is one question upon which all sections of the country seem ready to unite.

The News Review does not print the advertisements of Pittsburg concerns who come in competition with local business men. It does not believe in taking money from the city when it can be used at home with equal advantage to the purchaser. If we are to have the principle of protection, let us have it complete.

Democrats are complaining because Johnny McLean not only dictates the business of the state committee, but decides just what should constitute a Democrat. This is unkind. It will hurt the gas magnate's feelings. He has always been boss when the gas monopoly was the subject, and it is but natural that he should be heard and obeyed now that his influence has been temporarily turned from illuminant to politics.

THE FARMER'S HARVEST.

The seed planted in the Republican victory last fall is already developing, and the farmer is first to reap the harvest. Wool has steadily advanced until today it commands a higher price than at any time since the election of Cleveland and the rule of the ruinous principles he represented. Corn and wheat have also increased in value until the farmer can see in the market reports some return for his toil. The silver men told us the farmer would suffer most unless free coinage won, but as usual the silver men made a mistake. It was but the addition of one to the long list growing out of their speeches and publications in the last campaign.

The Wind Blew.

The high wind last evening damaged trees in all parts of the city, and not a few were blown down in the streets, and the hill streets were given another cleaning. A rainbow followed the storm, attracting by its beauty a great deal of attention.

WHAT MR. BYERS SAID

Governor Bushnell Sent the Letter to Lisbon.

THE COMMISSIONERS HAVE IT

He Believes That the Old Jail Walls Can Be Retained, and if There Is a Rearrangement of Cells and a New Residence For the Sheriff It Will Be All Right.

LISBON, May 25.—[Special]—More literature has been added to that already published concerning the jail. It is the letter sent by Joseph T. Byers, secretary of the board of state charities, to Governor Bushnell. He in turn forwarded it to the commissioners, with the question of what they intended to do toward remedying the condition of the jail. The letter is as follows:

"On April 25 I visited and made an inspection of the institutions of Columbiana county, including the infirmary and jail. The condition of the latter I desire to call particularly to your attention.

"The jail was built more than half a century ago. It is a plain, square, two-story brick building containing the jail and the residence of the sheriff. The rooms occupied by the sheriff are opposite the cells on the west floor, and above the cells located in the basement. At the time of my visit four prisoners occupied the front cell on the first floor, the door of which opens into the center corridor opposite the parlor.

"There are 10 cells, not one of which is fit for occupancy. The sewerage is conspicuous largely by its absence. In the basement corridor a drain in the floor was full of water. The cells in this part are separated from the windows by a corridor. The windows are small, and are heavily barred, and through them filters all the air and light the prisoners receive. In addition they are damp. The windows in cells on the first and second floors are barred and are covered with perforated boiler plate. There are no facilities for bathing whatever.

"That the jail has outgrown its usefulness is unquestionable. As a prison it is unsafe, inadequate, antiquated, a constant menace to the health of the prisoners, the sheriff and his family, and a school for crime. The board of county visitors in 1893 said of it: 'It is a disgrace to any civilized community; but it is as well kept as its dilapidated condition will allow.' Grand juries have condemned it repeatedly. The intelligent people of the county who are familiar with its conditions condemn it. Common sense and common decency condemn it. It condemns itself.

"The building is in a bad state of repair, and the time has come when but two courses are open to the commissioners. First, to repair the old jail; second, to remodel it thoroughly, and add some suitable provision for the sheriff and his family.

"The first of these has the following objections: The jail is past profitable repair. Any sum, however small, expended for such purpose would be a waste of money, and would serve only to delay the erection of a new jail. No sort of repair short of an entire rearrangement of cells, corridor and sheriff's residence will render it fit for occupancy.

"The other cause, the remodeling of the jail, can be followed with profit to the county. The outside walls, old as they are, might be retained. The jail is so situated that ample room remains in front for the residence and though it is some distance from the court house, still it stands in a large lot far back from the street.

"At the last election the proposition to bond the county for a new jail was voted down. That that could have been done if the people had been familiar with the old jail is exceedingly doubtful. That, however, being the present situation, it becomes a question whether the commissioners should not order the use of the jail discontinued, and arrange with the nearest county having a modern jail for the care of prisoners, or whether the building fund of $14,000, now available, should not be supplemented by a special levy to carry out the plan of remodeling the jail before alluded to, a course which I believe to be in the best interests of all concerned.

"Very respectfully,
"JOS. T. BYERS."

WELLSVILLE MAN'S WILL

Is Causing Something of a Commotion in His Family.

LISBON, May 25.—[Special]—The aid of the court was asked in a suit filed to-day to properly construe the meaning of a clause of the will of John Anderson, Wellsville. Action was brought by Mrs. Anderson, executor of the estate, against the minor heirs. The clause in question bequeaths to her all of the money and other valuables in the estate, while another provides that she provide a home for two children and raise them to the best of her ability with kindness and parental love. After the payment of all debts $2,300 remains in Mrs. Anderson's possession, and she is in doubt as to its proper disposition. Mrs. Anderson also wants an opinion as to the ownership of two lots. Under the will she claims them, and the interest which the children claim is a cloud upon her title. She asks that they be barred from asserting rights.

Religion in New England Life.

If one examines the history of New England character, he will find it hard to exaggerate the part which religion has played in its development. In former days even the irreligious had, in the background of their lives, a severe and self denying standard of living which it was impossible for them to ignore. Sin itself was invested with a fearful dignity, and surely no dream of human perfection ever so exalted the nature of man as did that stern theology which taught him that the stars and planets were only lights to light him at night; that for his benefit or for his punishment God might at any moment interrupt the course of the universe, and finally that he had within himself the momentous power of choosing eternal punishment or eternal happiness. Under that religious belief there grew up men and women—some of them are still living—who constituted little reservoirs of moral strength upon which the community or even the nation itself could draw in times of necessity.

What influence will take the place of that old belief? What moral force will curb the passions, chasten the lives, stimulate the energy of the rude people who are born in these remote towns? Whence shall they derive the discipline and the self control without which their primeval strength will be as useless as the undammed waters of a mountain torrent? I confess that these thoughts fill me with apprehension for the future, and sometimes I am even led to think that New England character reached its culmination in the heroic sacrifices of the civil war and entered thereafter upon a long and gradual course of sure decay. All this, however, may be—and I trust that it is—simply the pessimism of an old man.—Philip Morgan in Atlantic.

Toxines and Antitoxines.

The opinion that distinct toxines require distinct antitoxines would appear to require some modification. Dr. Calmette has shown that anti snake venom serum protects against scorpion poison. Roux and Calmette have shown that rabbits vaccinated against rabies acquire remarkable powers of resisting the action of cobra venom. Again, animals vaccinated against tetanus and anthrax, respectively, not only elaborate antitetanic and antianthrax serum, but such serums have also been found to be in some cases capable of counteracting the effects of cobra venom. Calmette has also shown that antidiphtheria, antitetanus, antianthrax and anticholera serums possess decided immunizing powers with regard to the vegetable toxine of abrine. Dr. Memmo, working in the Hygienic institute of the University of Rome, has observed that a distinct, although slight, curative action is produced by antidiphtheria serum in cases of tetanus.

Some extremely interesting investigations by Dr. Marriotti-Bianchi, dealing with the action of normal serums from various sources on different bacterial toxines, also tend to confirm the above observations. Bianchi has also been able to reproduce all the phenomena claimed by Pfeiffer to be specific in respect to the behavior of cholera vibrios in anticholera serum by placing these vibrios in normal serum derived from dogs and cats respectively. It would appear that not only may various antitoxines modify one and the same toxine, but normal serums may also produce in some cases protection against toxines. This latter point has been specially dwelt upon by Bianchi in his memoir.—Nature.

Unseasonable Civility.

A northern visitor in Atlanta was walking with his host in the garden the other morning, when they came upon the gardener, an old negro of 70 years. "This," said the host, "is Moses, an old family servant."

"Mr. Moses," said the northerner, extending his hand and touching his hat, "I am happy to meet you."

The old negro, ignoring the proffered hand, threw his own hat on the grass and, pulling at his wool, made a low obeisance.

When the guest was gone, he approached his employer and former master. "Marse Jim," he said, "ain't de 'lection done over?"

"The election?"

"Yes, sub; de votin'?"

"Of course. Why do you ask?"

"Bekase," said the puzzled old fellow, "dat's de fust white man dat li' he hat ter me en try ter shake hands out o' season. Dey sholy is somepin up."—Atlanta Constitution.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., TUESDAY, MAY 25

The senators took up the tariff bill today. Let us hope they will drop it within reasonable time.

WHEN Uncle Sam says a word in defense of Cuba, Spain immediately sends forth a bluff that would put to shame a western cowboy.

THE Toledo Blade would kill off the frog as the city's emblem and asks suggestions for a new coat of arms. What is the matter with a bar of music?

If the senate long delays the passage of the tariff law importations will cease because all the warehouses of Boston, New York and Philadelphia will have been filled.

THE Republican senators should get together on the tariff. They cannot expect to ever bring about the passage of the bill unless they stand shoulder to shoulder, a united line facing the foe.

THE public library is in need of funds. Incidentally it needs books. These are wants the people of East Liverpool should fill. An institution such as is the library should not be permitted to fail for want of support.

OHIO Democrats are not now forming a beautiful set piece emblematic of harmony. Millionaire John Thomas is after Millionaire John McLean, and when the convention meets there will be war to the knife, and a big knife too.

THE belief that United States senators should be elected by the direct vote of the people in gaining ground. Even in the east its supporters are constantly increasing. It is one question upon which all sections of the country seem ready to unite.

THE NEWS REVIEW does not print the advertisements of Pittsburg concerns who come in competition with local business men. It does not believe in taking money from the city when it can be used at home with equal advantage to the purchaser. If we are to have the principle of protection, let us have it complete.

DEMOCRATS are complaining because Johnny McLean not only dictates the business of the state committee, but decides just what should constitute a Democrat. This is unkind. It will hurt the gas magnate's feelings. He has always been boss when the gas monopoly was the subject, and it is but natural that he should be heard and obeyed now that his influence has been temporarily turned from illuminant to politics.

THE FARMER'S HARVEST.

The seed planted in the Republican victory last fall is already developing, and the farmer is first to reap the harvest. Wool has steadily advanced until today it commands a higher price than at any time since the election of Cleveland and the rule of the ruinous principles he represented. Corn and wheat have also increased in value until the farmer can see in the market reports some return for his toil. The silver men told us the farmer would suffer most unless free coinage won, but as usual the silver men made a mistake. It was but the addition of one to the long list growing out of their speeches and publications in the last campaign.

The Wind Blew.

The high wind last evening damaged trees in all parts of the city, and not a few were blown down in the streets, and the hill streets were given another cleaning. A rainbow followed the storm, attracting by its beauty a great deal of attention.

WHAT MR. BYERS SAID

Governor Bushnell Sent the Letter to Lisbon.

THE COMMISSIONERS HAVE IT

He Believes That the Old Jail Walls Can Be Retained, and if There Is a Rearrangement of Cells and a New Residence For the Sheriff It Will Be All Right.

LISBON, May 25.—[Special]—More literature has been added to that already published concerning the jail. It is the letter sent by Joseph T. Byers, secretary of the board of state charities, to Governor Bushnell. He in turn forwarded it to the commissioners, with the question of what they intended to do toward remedying the condition of the jail. The letter is as follows:

"On April 25 I visited and made an inspection of the institutions of Columbiana county, including the infirmary and jail. The condition of the latter I desire to call particularly to your attention.

"The jail was built more than half a century ago. It is a plain, square, two-story brick building containing the jail and the residence of the sheriff. The rooms occupied by the sheriff are opposite the cells on the west floor, and above the cells located in the basement. At the time of my visit four prisoners occupied the front cell on the first floor, the door of which opens into the center corridor opposite the parlor.

"There are 10 cells, not one of which is fit for occupancy. The sewerage is conspicuous largely by its absence. In the basement corridor a drain in the floor was full of water. The cells in this part are separated from the windows by a corridor. The windows are small, and are heavily barred, and through them filters all the air and light the prisoners receive. In addition they are damp. The windows in cells on the first and second floors are barred and are covered with perforated boiler plate. There are no facilities for bathing whatever.

"That the jail has outgrown its usefulness is unquestionable. As a prison it is unsafe, inadequate, antiquated, a constant menace to the health of the prisoners, the sheriff and his family, and a school for crime. The board of county visitors in 1893 said of it: 'It is a disgrace to any civilized community; but it is as well kept as its dilapidated condition will allow.' Grand juries have condemned it repeatedly. The intelligent people of the county who are familiar with its conditions condemn it. Common sense and common decency condemn it. It condemns itself.

"The building is in a bad state of repair, and the time has come when but two courses are open to the commissioners. First, to repair the old jail; second, to remodel it thoroughly, and add some suitable provision for the sheriff and his family.

"The first of these has the following objections: The jail is past profitable repair. Any sum, however small, expended for such purpose would be a waste of money, and would serve only to delay the erection of a new jail. No sort of repair short of an entire rearrangement of cells, corridor and sheriff's residence will render it fit for occupancy.

"The other cause, the remodeling of the jail, can be followed with profit to the county. The outside walls, old as they are, might be retained. The jail is so situated that ample room remains in front for the residence and though it is some distance from the court house, still it stands in a large lot far back from the street.

"At the last election the proposition to bond the county for a new jail was voted down. That that could have been done if the people had been familiar with the old jail is exceedingly doubtful. That, however, being the present situation, it becomes a question whether the commissioners should not order the use of the jail discontinued, and arrange with the nearest county having a modern jail for the care of prisoners, or whether the building fund of $14,000, now available, should not be supplemented by a special levy to carry out the plan of remodeling the jail before alluded to, a course which I believe to be in the best interests of all concerned.

SHUT DOWN THE PLANT

A Lot of Boys Struck at the Specialty.

WERE PROMPTLY DISCHARGED

Manager Manor Is Today Looking For a New Force—Nothing Can Be Done Until the Vacant Places Are Filled—A Matter of Money.

A strike occurred, yesterday, at the Specialty Glass works which caused the shut down of the entire plant.

About 30 sticking up and carrying in boys decided they were not getting enough money, and made a proposition for an advance to the management. It was refused, and with but few exceptions, the lads struck, and they were told to hunt new jobs, as they would not be wanted again.

The sticking up boys were receiving 55 cents a turn, or $1.10 a day, and they asked a raise of 5 cents a turn, increasing their wages to $1.20. The carrying in boys receive 40 cents a turn, or 80 cents a day, and they also asked for an increase of 5 cents a turn, or to 90 cents a day.

The boys claim that until a short time ago they had not so much to do, but recently the rule was changed, and now they have to work by the hour and do all they can, and as a consequence the work is much harder and they think they are entitled to more pay.

Manager Manor says he is paying the boys from five to ten cents more money than any other glass house in the country at the present time, and does not propose to increase their wages. Meantime the works will be shut down until new boys can be secured or the old ones think better of their demand.

DELAYED BY FIRE.

A Crockery Salesman Intended to Work For Burford Bros.

H. W. Balmer, of Upper Sandusky, was a passenger on the early Cleveland train this morning. To a reporter the gentleman said: "I intended to stop off here this morning to accept a position as salesman for Burford Bros, but their recent loss by fire will delay my starting. The territory they intended to assign me is a good one, but the chances are matters will be so arranged that I will start within a few weeks."

Mr. Balmer is an old newspaper man having spent over fifteen years in that line.

NO MORE COAL

Will Go Down the River Until After the Monongahela Is Free.

Even though the stage of water in the Ohio was sufficient to float coal boats and barges, none would pass this port. The Pittsburg coal men have decided to ship no more until the government pays the award to the navigation company and the Monongahela is free. They say the amount of coal in every town from Cincinnati south is so large that there is no profit after tolls on the Monongahela are paid.

The organization of the new company will be effected soon after the deed is given over. The road will be known as the East Liverpool street railway.

WILL TALK FINANCE

And There May Be Other Subjects of Interest.

An adjourned meeting of the board of education will be held this evening. The principal business will be the hearing of suggestions from Superintendent Sanor and the preparation of an estimate of the expenses for the next school year. BUD BROOKES ARRESTED.

He Is Charged With Robbing a Lisbon Hardware Store.

Deputy Bick, of Lisbon, this morning arrested Bud Brookes, colored, of this place, suspected of robbing the hardware store of P. M. Armstrong & Co., of that place, last night. Goods to the amount of $35 were stolen. He was placed in the county jail. He will be given a hearing tomorrow.

Z. B. KINSEY'S SIDE.

He Did Not Know He Was Breaking the Law.

Z. B. Kinsey stated today that a month ago Chief Johnson told him no more paper could be burned in the alley or lot back of the First U. P. church. He then moved a stove from the store to the yard, believing it was not a violation of the ordinance. Yesterday Fireman Terrence notified him he was breaking the ordinance, and he at once quit burning paper. In the afternoon he was requested to appear before the mayor and pay $5.60.

FELL OUT OF A BUGGY.

Accident to a Small Boy on the Lisbon Road.

A small boy yesterday afternoon fell out of a buggy on the Lisbon road. He dropped one of the lines and in reaching to secure it overbalanced, and fell in the mud. In falling his head struck the wheel and he sustained a severe cut. Assistance was rendered at once, but the boy was only dazed, and was able to continue his journey in a few minutes.

A CHANGE AT BRUNT'S.

Charles Thompson Has Withdrawn From the Firm.

Charles Thompson, who has for some time been interested in the firm of Brunt & Thompson, has withdrawn, the transfer being completed yesterday. The concern will be known as the W. F. Brunt Porcelain works.

Mr. Thompson's retirement was occasioned by the demand upon his time made by his music publishing business in Chicago.

AN EXPLOSION.

It Broke Two Windows at the Oschmann House.

Escaping gas caused a small explosion in the house of Fred Oschmann in Walnut street this morning. The explosion occurred about 2:30. A window in the office and one in the parlor were broken by the shock. The loss will be about $50, covered by insurance.

Elaborate Scheme.

"I wish one word from me would strike that man blind and deaf and dumb for the rest of his life."

"What crime has he committed?"

"None that I know of."

"What has he ever done to you?"

"Nothing."

"Then why do you wish you had the power to injure him so horribly?"

"So I could generously refrain from exercising it. This would give me a claim on his gratitude and I could strike him for a loan. Isn't it a beastly shame that a man who can originate a scheme like that should be suffering at this moment for lack of a paltry, miserable, dad-dinged quarter of a dollar?"—Chicago Tribune.

Not an Accident.

Caller (on crutches and with a bandage over one eye)—I have come, sir, to make application for the amount due me on my accident insurance policy. I fell down a long flight of steps the other evening and sustained damages that will disable me for a month to come.

President of the Company—Young man, I have taken the trouble to investigate your case, and I find you are not entitled to anything. It could not be called an accident. You knew the young woman's father was at home.—London Tit-Bits.

Board Will Debate.

The condition of Tanyard run will be debated by the board of health at their next meeting. Sanitary Policeman Burgess is now getting some facts in reference to the place, and no doubt some definite action will be taken.

Will Answer in a Few Days.

It was learned this afternoon that the East Palestine potters, to whom a proposition had been made by the Salem board of trade, are expected to send in their answer before Thursday night. Salem's offer is a liberal one.

IT RESTS ON COUNCIL

Cemetery Trustees Will Propose a Plan

FOR CHANGES AT THE CEMETERY

If It Is Accepted Bodies Will Be Removed From the Edge of the Bluff and Buried Where They Will Be Out of Danger When the Slips Occur.

The cemetery trustees have at last taken some action in regard to the old cemetery.

Last week they viewed the cemetery and made a careful survey of the place to see just what was needed to prevent bodies going over the hill. A complete report has been made, and tonight at council the trustees will present a proposition which will give council charge of the improvements necessary, and allow it to pay all expense. It is proposed to remove the bodies along the edge of the hill out of all danger. This means the lifting of at least 50 bodies. The cemetery trustees have not the funds at their command, and if council is willing to stand the expense the work will begin at once.

As it is now the matter rests entirely in the hands of council, and it is probable that body will take some definite action this evening in view of the opinion expressed by its members on several occasions.

On the River.

When the Keystone arrived at this port last evening no less than nine passengers went on board. Prominent among them were Mrs. Henry Thompson, Mrs. H. R. Thompson and Mrs. James Walters. They will make the round trip to Cincinnati.

Other boats down were Nellie Walton and Ben Hur. Passed up—Raymond Horner and the Iron Age. The latter boat passed down over two months ago, bound for New Orleans.

Stage of water 6.2 feet and stationary.

A little rise is anticipated as a result of the recent rains.

SHUT DOWN THE PLANT

A Lot of Boys Struck at the Specialty.

WERE PROMPTLY DISCHARGED

Manager Manor Is Today Looking For a New Force—Nothing Can Be Done Until the Vacant Places Are Filled—A Matter of Money.

A strike occurred, yesterday, at the Specialty Glass works which caused the shut down of the entire plant.

About 30 sticking up and carrying in boys decided they were not getting enough money, and made a proposition for an advance to the management. It was refused, and with but few exceptions, the lads struck, and they were told to hunt new jobs, as they would not be wanted again.

The sticking up boys were receiving 55 cents a turn, or $1.10 a day, and they asked a raise of 5 cents a turn, increasing their wages to $1.20. The carrying in boys receive 40 cents a turn, or 80 cents a day, and they also asked for an increase of 5 cents a turn, or to 90 cents a day.

The boys claim that until a short time ago they had not so much to do, but recently the rule was changed, and now they have to work by the hour and do all they can, and as a consequence the work is much harder and they think they are entitled to more pay.

Manager Manor says he is paying the boys from five to ten cents more money than any other glass house in the country at the present time, and does not propose to increase their wages. Meantime the works will be shut down until new boys can be secured or the old ones think better of their demand.

DELAYED BY FIRE.

A Crockery Salesman Intended to Work For Burford Bros.

H. W. Balmer, of Upper Sandusky, was a passenger on the early Cleveland train this morning. To a reporter the gentleman said: "I intended to stop off here this morning to accept a position as salesman for Burford Bros, but their recent loss by fire will delay my starting. The territory they intended to assign me is a good one, but the chances are matters will be so arranged that I will start within a few weeks."

Mr. Balmer is an old newspaper man having spent over fifteen years in that line.

NO MORE COAL

Will Go Down the River Until After the Monongahela Is Free.

Even though the stage of water in the Ohio was sufficient to float coal boats and barges, none would pass this port. The Pittsburg coal men have decided to ship no more until the government pays the award to the navigation company and the Monongahela is free. They say the amount of coal in every town from Cincinnati south is so large that there is no profit after tolls on the Monongahela are paid.

DELIVERING THE DEED.

Sheriff Gill Will Wind Up the Street Railway Transfer.

The organization of the new company will be effected soon after the deed is given over. The road will be known as the East Liverpool street railway.

WILL TALK FINANCE

And There May Be Other Subjects of Interest.

An adjourned meeting of the board of education will be held this evening. The principal business will be the hearing of suggestions from Superintendent Sanor and the preparation of an estimate of the expenses for the next school year. He Is Charged With Robbing a Lisbon Hardware Store.

Hit Upon a Plan.

The small boy with his usual inquisitive mind has hit upon a way to start the penny-in-a-slot music boxes, and now the average youngster may be seen enjoying the music without paying for it.

Z. B. KINSEY'S SIDE.

He Did Not Know He Was Breaking the Law.

Z. B. Kinsey stated today that a month ago Chief Johnson told him no more paper could be burned in the alley or lot back of the First U. P. church. He then moved a stove from the store to the yard, believing it was not a violation of the ordinance. Yesterday Fireman Terrence notified him he was breaking the ordinance, and he at once quit burning paper. In the afternoon he was requested to appear before the mayor and pay $5.60.

FELL OUT OF A BUGGY.

Accident to a Small Boy on the Lisbon Road.

A small boy yesterday afternoon fell out of a buggy on the Lisbon road. He dropped one of the lines and in reaching to secure it overbalanced, and fell in the mud. In falling his head struck the wheel and he sustained a severe cut. Assistance was rendered at once, but the boy was only dazed, and was able to continue his journey in a few minutes.

A CHANGE AT BRUNT'S.

Charles Thompson Has Withdrawn From the Firm.

Charles Thompson, who has for some time been interested in the firm of Brunt & Thompson, has withdrawn, the transfer being completed yesterday. The concern will be known as the W. F. Brunt Porcelain works.

Mr. Thompson's retirement was occasioned by the demand upon his time made by his music publishing business in Chicago.

AN EXPLOSION.

It Broke Two Windows at the Oschmann House.

Escaping gas caused a small explosion in the house of Fred Oschmann in Walnut street this morning. The explosion occurred about 2:30. A window in the office and one in the parlor were broken by the shock. The loss will be about $50, covered by insurance.

Elaborate Scheme.

"I wish one word from me would strike that man blind and deaf and dumb for the rest of his life."

"What crime has he committed?"

"None that I know of."

"What has he ever done to you?"

"Nothing."

"Then why do you wish you had the power to injure him so horribly?"

"So I could generously refrain from exercising it. This would give me a claim on his gratitude and I could strike him for a loan. Isn't it a beastly shame that a man who can originate a scheme like that should be suffering at this moment for lack of a paltry, miserable, dad-dinged quarter of a dollar?"—Chicago Tribune.

Not an Accident.

Caller (on crutches and with a bandage over one eye)—I have come, sir, to make application for the amount due me on my accident insurance policy. I fell down a long flight of steps the other evening and sustained damages that will disable me for a month to come.

President of the Company—Young man, I have taken the trouble to investigate your case, and I find you are not entitled to anything. It could not be called an accident. You knew the young woman's father was at home.—London Tit-Bits.

Board Will Debate.

The condition of Tanyard run will be debated by the board of health at their next meeting. Sanitary Policeman Burgess is now getting some facts in reference to the place, and no doubt some definite action will be taken.

Will Answer in a Few Days.

It was learned this afternoon that the East Palestine potters, to whom a proposition had been made by the Salem board of trade, are expected to send in their answer before Thursday night. Salem's offer is a liberal one.

Damaged the Machinery.

The tow boat Dick Fulton blew out a cylinder head below Wellsville this morning. The boat passed this port at noon with only one engine working.

Removed the Bed.

The bed that was thrown in Tanyard run last Friday evening was removed yesterday by the parties who put it there.

At the beginning of this century there were 31,450,000 persons in the world using French as a spoken language, and in 1890 the number had increased to 51,200,000.

Every president of the United States has been either a lawyer or a soldier or both.

IT RESTS ON COUNCIL

Cemetery Trustees Will Propose a Plan

FOR CHANGES AT THE CEMETERY

If It Is Accepted Bodies Will Be Removed From the Edge of the Bluff and Buried Where They Will Be Out of Danger When the Slips Occur.

The cemetery trustees have at last taken some action in regard to the old cemetery.

Last week they viewed the cemetery and made a careful survey of the place to see just what was needed to prevent bodies going over the mill. A complete report has been made, and tonight at council the trustees will present a proposition which will give council charge of the improvements necessary, and allow it to pay all expense. It is proposed to remove the bodies along the edge of the hill out of all danger. This means the lifting of at least 50 bodies. The cemetery trustees have not the funds at their command, and if council is willing to stand the expense the work will begin at once.

As it is now the matter rests entirely in the hands of council, and it is probable that body will take some definite action this evening in view of the opinion expressed by its members on several occasions.

On the River.

When the Keystone arrived at this port last evening no less than nine passengers went on board. Prominent among them were Mrs. Henry Thompson, Mrs. H. R. Thompson and Mrs. James Walters. They will make the round trip to Cincinnati.

Other boats down were Nellie Walton and Ben Hur. Passed up—Raymond Horner and the Iron Age. The latter boat passed down over two months ago, bound for New Orleans.

Stage of water 6.2 feet and stationary. A little rise is anticipated as a result of the recent rains.

Recognized.

The checker column of a city paper this week contains a problem by Charles Price, the well known local checkerist, while Albert Obney has a valuable correction of one of the Wiley-Martin games now being played in England.

A Jury Trial.

The case of the Wilbur Seed Meal company against A. J. Moon came up for a hearing before Squire Hill, this morning. The defendant asked for a jury trial, which was granted, and set for June 25.

At a Meeting.

PROOF OF SINCERITY.

How An Army Officer Stood the Supreme Test of Belief In Fatalism.

In the days of the "old army" on the frontier, when military posts were sometimes hundreds of miles from any civilized place, there was little to do in the way of amusement in the winter time when the post was snowbound, and it was then that the reputation the army has for card playing and drinking was gained. And it is true that a great deal of both was done at that time.

It was in these days that an event transpired that showed that the principal actor had the courage of his convictions, and that he was most certainly born under a lucky star. It was after a very "wet" stag dinner party, and all had partaken most freely of the wine, and, strange as it may seem, the subject that came up for discussion was the Mohammedan religion. The Mussulmans believe in fate. To them a man's fate is written above, and the time of his death is set, and nothing can advance it. Well, this belief had been discussed long and earnestly. The pros and cons had been gone over at length, till one officer wanted to know of what use was reason if every one was born with a tag of destiny attached. One officer finally arose and said there was no use of discussing the matter any further. The only way was to make a practical test of the question, and he would give himself as a subject. Could a man willfully dispose of his life when the fatal moment had been chosen at his birth from above?

He could get no one to try the experiment on him. Finally a wager was made.

"Who will pay you if I lose?" said the subject as he drew his pistol and showed that it was loaded. He placed the pistol against his temple and pulled the trigger. The pistol missed fire.

"A joke," yelled the crowd. The fatalist smiled, and, recocking the pistol, aimed it with a steady hand at the clock on the wall. He fired, and the bullet crashed through the center of the dial.

"Apologize to me now," he said. "I have won the bet. I always believed in fate."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

FISH AS FOOD.

The Dark Is Better Than the White For an Active Person.

Mrs. S. T. Rorer, in The Ladies' Home Journal, contends that there has not been a sufficiently accurate analysis upon which to base any table regarding the chemical composition of fish at all reliable. "The albuminoid matter in white fish, as cod, haddock and halibut, is in about the same proportion as in beef and mutton. They contain, however, more phosphorus—the active fish, such as trout and pickerel, containing a still greater amount, due no doubt to their activity. The amount of carbon depends largely upon the amount of fat they contain. The whitefish are, therefore, deficient in carbon. If you should ask an intelligent cook what vegetable to serve with a boiled white fish she would answer quickly, potatoes, as they supply the wanting carbohydrates.

"There are other kinds of fish, however, such as salmon, catfish and sturgeon, that are quite well supplied with carbohydrates, in consequence of which they are not so easily digested as the white fish. The more oil they have dispersed through the body, the more difficult the digestion. In the white fish the fat is held in the liver; in the dark fish it is dispersed through the entire flesh. From this fact we learn that dark fish make a much better diet for the active man. Many authorities affirm that the more active fish, as well as the more active animals, give better muscle making food than their more indolent relations."

Kaiser and Painter.

There was a touching exchange of compliments the other day between Emperor William and the Russian painter Verestchagin, whose works are now on exhibition in Berlin. The kaiser went to the gallery and was gracious enough to remind the artist that they had met before. "Yes, your majesty," replied Verestchagin, "and then you were only 'highness,' but now you are 'majesty.'" To this the kaiser is said to have replied, holding out his hand, "And you, who were a great painter then, are now a greater one."

It is not altogether surprising that the Russian is reported as expressing deep respect for the emperor's critical powers, or that he quotes, as showing limitless historical knowledge, the emperor's declaration, made at this momentous interview, that "if ever a judgment of God broke over a man, it was over Napoleon at Moscow." Meanwhile Verestchagin's pictures will continue to reveal the horrors of militarism, and thus supply one with the pleasant mental recreation of wondering what Europe's one real war lord can see to admire in them.—New York Times.

Caps of linen, wool, straw, bark of trees and leather were extensively worn in Egypt and Arabia in early times and were usually of a pointed or peak shape. The variety of headresses used by the Egyptian ladies was very great.

There are more than 200 lakes within the boundaries of Venezuela, one of the largest being 1,600 feet above the level of the sea. The Orinoco river, the largest in Venezuela, is 1,160 miles long.

FRENCH JOURNALS.

Shares of Several Bought and Sold Daily on the Stock Exchange.

Most of the French journals have a salle de depêches, where bulletins are displayed and a museum of relics of the paper is kept. French journalism is much more personal in regard to its literary composition than that of England or America. A large proportion of the articles are signed with the names of the writers, even when the work is more or less of a routine nature, such as the sporting or law departments of the paper. On the other hand, the ownership of newspapers is less frequently lodged in single hands than is the case in America. Very many of the French papers are owned by companies or associations, while the stock of several of the best known, such as The Figaro and Petit Journal, is bought and sold daily on the Stock Exchange, the quotations appearing as regularly as those of railway shares or Government bonds.

The circulation of all but a very few of the Paris papers varies enormously, according to the contents. If a paper contains a striking article, well advertised previously, or if its feuilleton, continued story or memoirs, which most of the French journals consider an essential part of their daily issue, is by some well known author, the circulation will run up 50,000 or 100,000 in a week and drop again as soon as the special feature is discontinued. When Le Jour began publishing M. Henri Rochefort's memoirs, its circulation went up fivefold, although the price of the paper had been doubled in order to make hay while the sun shone.

The French press is much more concentrated in the capital than that of other European countries. In Germany, for instance, it is not the press of Berlin that has the largest circulation or the greatest influence. In this, as in many other matters, however, the French press only bears out the saying that "Paris is France."—Chautauquan.

NEW PUNCTUATION MARK.

A Badly Needed Invention Suggested by the Caustic Copy Reader.

"I shall be famous. I have an idea that will send my name thundering down through the ages," remarked the copy reader.

"Humph!" replied the humorist. "It will be the first idea you have ever had. You spend most of your time destroying the good ideas of others."

"Well, that may be, although you never have any idea to destroy, seeing that you get those which you have from Joe Miller's jokebook and the old almanacs."

"Oh, well, let's have your idea!"

"To tell the truth, it was suggested to me by you."

"Ah! I thought as much, and yet you say—"

"Don't be in too big a hurry. You haven't heard my idea."

"What is it?"

"I have invented a punctuation mark for humor. It is intended to show the reader where to laugh. In olden times, you know, the point of the joke used to be printed in italics. Nowadays there is no way to show the point, and, as many of the jokes, such as yours, have no point, it is impossible to print the point in italics. Now, I suggest that a punctuation mark be placed at the beginning and at the end of everything supposed to be funny, so that the reader may be prepared to laugh when he begins to read and know when he has reached the point and it is time to laugh. I would suggest that the mark be two little squares placed above the line, and I shall call it by my name. What do you think of that for an idea? It was suggested by your stuff, as I told you."

But the humorist had given the copy reader a look of scorn and had vanished.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Rabbits That Climb.

A correspondent writes to the London Field that while he was hunting rabbits with ferrets in January he found rabbits on three occasions in willow trees which overhung the water of a mill stream. The miller said that it was not an unusual circumstance. Some months ago The Field told of other rabbits which had been shot, like raccoons or opossums, out of trees in England. In recent years cases of rabbits in trees have been reported with increasing frequency. From Australia has come the most remarkable story of rabbits as climbers. The only way in which rabbits could be kept out of certain tracts of land in Australia was by the building of wire fences about them, the fences having meshes so small that the beasts could not crawl through and being so high that they could not jump over. The rabbits have clawed at the wires until their nails gradually have become hooked. Some of the rabbits learned to scale the fences, and then great additional expense was necessary, for the top of the fence had to be bent over like a J upside down, with the hook out, so that the rodents could not get over the top. Australian rabbits are said to be learning to climb trees for the leaves.

PROOF OF SINCERITY.

How An Army Officer Stood the Supreme Test of Belief In Fatalism.

In the days of the "old army" on the frontier, when military posts were sometimes hundreds of miles from any civilized place, there was little to do in the way of amusement in the winter time when the post was snowbound, and it was then that the reputation the army has for card playing and drinking was gained. And it is true that a great deal of both was done at that time.

It was in these days that an event transpired that showed that the principal actor had the courage of his convictions, and that he was most certainly born under a lucky star. It was after a very "wet" stag dinner party, and all had partaken most freely of the wine, and, strange as it may seem, the subject that came up for discussion was the Mohammedan religion. The Mussulmans believe in fate. To them a man's fate is written above, and the time of his death is set, and nothing can advance it. Well, this belief had been discussed long and earnestly. The pros and cons had been gone over at length, till one officer wanted to know of what use was reason if every one was born with a tag of destiny attached. One officer finally arose and said there was no use of discussing the matter any further. The only way was to make a practical test of the question, and he would give himself as a subject. Could a man willfully dispose of his life when the fatal moment had been chosen at his birth from above?

He could get no one to try the experiment on him. Finally a wager was made.

"Who will pay you if I lose?" said the subject as he drew his pistol and showed that it was loaded. He placed the pistol against his temple and pulled the trigger. The pistol missed fire.

"A joke," yelled the crowd.

The fatalist smiled, and, recocking the pistol, aimed it with a steady hand at the clock on the wall. He fired, and the bullet crashed through the center of the dial.

"Apologize to me now," he said. "I have won the bet. I always believed in fate."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

FISH AS FOOD.

The Dark Is Better Than the White For an Active Person.

Mrs. S. T. Rorer, in The Ladies' Home Journal, contends that there has not been a sufficiently accurate analysis upon which to base any table regarding the chemical composition of fish at all reliable. "The albuminoid matter in white fish, as cod, haddock and halibut, is in about the same proportion as in beef and mutton. They contain, however, more phosphorus—the active fish, such as trout and pickerel, containing a still greater amount, due no doubt to their activity. The amount of carbon depends largely upon the amount of fat they contain. The whitefish are, therefore, deficient in carbon. If you should ask an intelligent cook what vegetable to serve with a boiled white fish she would answer quickly, potatoes, as they supply the wanting carbohydrates.

"There are other kinds of fish, however, such as salmon, catfish and sturgeon, that are quite well supplied with carbohydrates, in consequence of which they are not so easily digested as the white fish. The more oil they have dispersed through the body, the more difficult the digestion. In the white fish the fat is held in the liver; in the dark fish it is dispersed through the entire flesh. From this fact we learn that dark fish make a much better diet for the active man. Many authorities affirm that the more active fish, as well as the more active animals, give better muscle making food than their more indolent relations."

Kaiser and Painter.

There was a touching exchange of compliments the other day between Emperor William and the Russian painter Verestchagin, whose works are now on exhibition in Berlin. The kaiser went to the gallery and was gracious enough to remind the artist that they had met before. "Yes, your majesty," replied Verestchagin, "and then you were only 'highness,' but now you are 'majesty.'" To this the kaiser is said to have replied, holding out his hand, "And you, who were a great painter then, are now a greater one."

It is not altogether surprising that the Russian is reported as expressing deep respect for the emperor's critical powers, or that he quotes, as showing limitless historical knowledge, the emperor's declaration, made at this momentous interview, that "if ever a judgment of God broke over a man, it was over Napoleon at Moscow." Meanwhile Verestchagin's pictures will continue to reveal the horrors of militarism, and thus supply one with the pleasant mental recreation of wondering what Europe's one real war lord can see to admire in them.—New York Times.

Caps of linen, wool, straw, bark of trees and leather were extensively worn in Egypt and Arabia in early times and were usually of a pointed or peak shape. The variety of headdresses used by the Egyptian ladies was very great.

FRENCH JOURNALS.

Shares of Several Bought and Sold Daily on the Stock Exchange.

Most of the French journals have a salle de depeches, where bulletins are displayed and a museum of relics of the paper is kept. French journalism is much more personal in regard to its literary composition than that of England or America. A large proportion of the articles are signed with the names of the writers, even when the work is more or less of a routine nature, such as the sporting or law departments of the paper. On the other hand, the ownership of newspapers is less frequently lodged in single hands than is the case in America. Very many of the French papers are owned by companies or associations, while the stock of several of the best known, such as The Figaro and Petit Journal, is bought and sold daily on the Stock Exchange, the quotations appearing as regularly as those of railway shares or Government bonds.

The circulation of all but a very few of the Paris papers varies enormously, according to the contents. If a paper contains a striking article, well advertised previously, or if its feuilleton, continued story or memoirs, which most of the French journals consider an essential part of their daily issue, is by some well known author, the circulation will run up 50,000 or 100,000 in a week and drop again as soon as the special feature is discontinued. When Le Jour began publishing M. Henri Rochefort's memoirs, its circulation went up five-fold, although the price of the paper had been doubled in order to make hay while the sun shone.

The French press is much more concentrated in the capital than that of other European countries. In Germany, for instance, it is not the press of Berlin that has the largest circulation or the greatest influence. In this, as in many other matters, however, the French press only bears out the saying that "Paris is France."—Chautauquan.

NEW PUNCTUATION MARK.

A Badly Needed Invention Suggested by the Caustic Copy Reader.

"I shall be famous. I have an idea that will send my name thundering down through the ages," remarked the copy reader.

"Humph!" replied the humorist. "It will be the first idea you have ever had. You spend most of your time destroying the good ideas of others."

"Well, that may be, although you never have any idea to destroy, seeing that you get those which you have from Joe Miller's jokebook and the old almanacs."

"Oh, well, let's have your idea!"

"To tell the truth, it was suggested to me by you."

"Ah! I thought as much, and yet you say—"

"Don't be in too big a hurry. You haven't heard my idea."

"What is it?"

"I have invented a punctuation mark for humor. It is intended to show the reader where to laugh. In olden times, you know, the point of the joke used to be printed in italics. Nowadays there is no way to show the point, and, as many of the jokes, such as yours, have no point, it is impossible to print the point in italics. Now, I suggest that a punctuation mark be placed at the beginning and at the end of everything supposed to be funny, so that the reader may be prepared to laugh when he begins to read and know when he has reached the point and it is time to laugh. I would suggest that the mark be two little squares placed above the line, and I shall call it by my name. What do you think of that for an idea? It was suggested by your stuff, as I told you."

But the humorist had given the copy reader a look of scorn and had vanished.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Rabbits That Climb.

A correspondent writes to the London Field that while he was hunting rabbits with ferrets in January he found rabbits on three occasions in willow trees which overhung the water of a mill stream. The miller said that it was not an unusual circumstance. Some months ago The Field told of other rabbits which had been shot, like raccoons or opossums, out of trees in England. In recent years cases of rabbits in trees have been reported with increasing frequency. From Australia has come the most remarkable story of rabbits as climbers. The only way in which rabbits could be kept out of certain tracts of land in Australia was by the building of wire fences about them, the fences having meshes so small that the beasts could not crawl through and being so high that they could not jump over. The rabbits have clawed at the wires until their nails gradually have become hooked. Some of the rabbits learned to scale the fences, and then great additional expense was necessary, for the top of the fence had to be bent over like a J upside down, with the hook out, so that the rodents could not get over the top. Australian rabbits are said to be learning to climb trees for the leaves.

A Canton Insurance Man Is the Victim.

HE BEFRIENDED A BAD BOY

But the Youth Could Not Endure Prosperity, and, Folding His Tent, He Gently Stole Money, a Railroad Ticket and Away—Policy Holders Will Not Suffer.

John L. Yost, a prominent insurance man of Canton, was in town today counting up his financial loss because he sent a young man here a few weeks ago to insure the lives of all who had the inclination and the money. He was successful beyond his expectations.

The young man came to the country not long ago from England, and drifting into Canton sought employment. He was without friends or influence, but Mr. Yost had faith in his declaration that he was willing and ready to work, and gave him employment. He was taught the business and then sent to this place to see what he could do. The first few weeks he walked on air, so marked was his success. Business fairly rolled into the Canton office, and the young man was praised into the seventh heaven. Then there came a lull. Business fell off, no more policies went to Canton, and the young man was recalled. He explained away his failure to continue the pace, and was given other employment. Last week some money was due the company here, and giving him a railroad ticket Mr. Yost sent him to Liverpool. This, however, was one of the places he had no desire to see, but he was far to cute to protest. Taking the ticket he boarded the train, and in person passes out of the story.

But the evil men do occasionally lives after them. Hearing nothing from his collector, Mr. Yost came himself to the city. Then the plan of operations was laid bare. The agent had pocketed the cash when he insured a man, and sent a forged note for 30 days to the office. These, with the amount on one policy, make up his defalcation. Mr. Yost at once recognized all the policies, and they will be carried out to the letter. He will be the only loser. Meantime the agent has gone, and not the slightest clue as to his whereabouts is at hand upon which to work.

EVIDENCE AGAINST MALONE.

It Is Being Sought by Prosecutor Speaker and Engineer Farmer.

Prosecutor Speaker is in Wellsville looking up evidence to be used in the trial of Patrick Malone. The prosecutor has nothing to say of his intentions, but it is known that he is losing no time. Surveyor Farmer went to Wellsville today and did the work preparatory to making a plat of the Geisse residence and its surroundings. Prosecutor Speaker will remain several days. He was in town today going over matters in connection with the Robison murder.

CUTTING EXPENSES.

Retrenchment on the Cleveland and Pittsburgh.

A special from Bellaire mentions a matter of interest:

"The Cleveland and Pittsburgh division of the Pennsylvania company are making some very sweeping reductions in their force of employees. Already a large number have been laid off, and orders have been received at the shops in this city to the effect that if any man quits work not to employ any in their place. Only enough are employed at this to do the most necessary work."

NEAR THE RESERVOIR

Will Likely Be Located the Range of Company E.

Captain Will Hill has not yet decided upon a range for Company E, and has spent some time looking over the proposed sites. Objections have been found to the race track and the proposed range on the Anderson farm, the captain believing that the site near the reservoir is by long odds the best. It is probable that the last named will be selected.

The Tempering of Springs.

It is a nice job to temper a steel spring properly. Like many other things, the preparatory work should be well done, or the tempering proper will never be a success. The forge work should be done with a rather low temperature and gentle taps. Smiths are beginning to understand that very many bits of forging have the life pounded out of them by heavy and continuous beating. Light taps smooth the surface and create what is equivalent to a cuticle over the metal. This should be carefully preserved. Light hammering consolidates the particles of steel and toughens the forging. It is said that continuous, steady and light blows with a hammer will magnetize steel. It seems to put life into it. If it is necessary to grind a spring, do it at the outset and before much of the hammering is done. Do not put it on an emery wheel. It breaks the cuticle and destroys the integrity of the metal. The hardening may be done by heating a large piece of iron to a red heat, then putting the spring on the iron until it is heated through.

Another way is to hold the spring over a bright fire until it is sufficiently hot. It should be kept some distance from the fire, so as not to heat too quickly. When it is of a light red and all of a color, plunge it into cool water. Do not use ice water, as is so often suggested. Be careful in putting in the spring that the sudden cooling of one side does not draw it out of shape. If it is put in slowly, it is warped by the sudden cooling of one portion. When fully tempered, polish the spring with emery cloth until it is thoroughly clean and bright. Saturate a piece of paper with oil, light it and allow the smoke to collect on the spring until it is entirely coated with the black. Then heat it over the forge fire very slowly. Do not let one part burn off clean while the other is still black, but let it disappear all over the spring at the same time if possible. The perfection of temper comes from slow and careful handling and the utmost deliberation in heating and hammering.—New York Ledger.

She Made Sure.

It was a bank near the suburbs of Brooklyn in which a little girl, not more than 8 years old, made her appearance the other day, asking if she might see its workings. A polite little girl was not to be refused, and she was taken inside and shown the various departments of the institution. But that was not where the money was kept; could she see where the money was kept? Certainly, and she was taken to see the vaults. Still there was no money to be seen, and she was not satisfied. Could she see the money? Certainly, if that was what she wished, and the vault doors were thrown open, and, with a sigh of satisfaction, the little girl saw some of the money in which she was interested. "Do you think burglars could get in here?" she asked finally. "Certainly not," replied the bank official who had been acting as conductor. "It would be very difficult for burglars to get into the bank, and they could not get into the vaults. But now," he continued, "you have asked me a great many questions, little girl, and I should like to know why you are so much interested in this bank." "Well," said the little girl confidentially, "my papa put $5 in this bank for me the other day, and I wanted to be sure that no burglars could get in and get it."—New York Times.

An Old Fashioned Journalist.

Harmon D. Wilson, who learned his letters from the Troy Chief, has written a two column article on Sol Miller for the Atchison Globe, in which he relates many interesting little reminiscences of the old fellow. Sol would never trust anybody else to make up the forms of his paper, and he never permitted anybody under any circumstances to touch the forms which contained the mailing list. For 40 years he put on an old apron each week and worked over the imposing stones on issue day. "When The Chief went to press," says Mr. Wilson, "the whistle was blown. That was the signal for all who wished to come and get their papers. Most of those in hearing came. As they took their papers from a folded pile which always stood in a certain place, they wrote their names on a sheet hung there for that purpose."—Kansas City Journal.

Cost of House Building.

There is a mistaken idea very prevalent that a small house that shall be attractive enough for a man of taste cannot be built for less than $2,000 or $3,000. Less than half that sum is sufficient if it is judiciously expended. Any amount of money can be squandered in nonessentials and in decorations that are as useless as inartistic. In the main one only requires from a house, as from a man, that it perform its duty well, and do the things it was intended to do in the best way and be pleasing and graceful in doing it. A model home, if it be skillfully planned, can be erected for a surprisingly small sum in these days.—Chicago Record.

WHAT SHALL I DO?

What shall I do lest life in silence pass?
And if it do
And never prompt the bray of noisy brass,
What needst thou rue?
Remember aye the ocean deeps are mute.
The shallows roar.
Worth is the ocean. Fame is but the brink
Along the shore.
What shall I do to be forever known?
Thy duty ever.
This did full many who yet slept unknown—
Oh, never, never!
Thinkst thou perchance that they remain unknown?
Whom thou knowest not?
By angel trumpets in heaven their praise is blown.
Divine their lot.
What shall I do to gain eternal life?
Discharge aright
The simple duties with which each day is rife,
Yea, with my might.
Ere perfect scheme of action thou devise
Will life be fled,
While he who ever acts as conscience cries
Shall live, thou dead.

THE RETIRED BURGLAR.

He Tells of Some Very Unpleasant Experiences With Mirrors.

"I have had," said the retired burglar, "some very unpleasant experiences with mirrors. I think I have told you how I once fired at my reflection in a mirror, mistaking it for another man—a mistake that I thought I should never make again. But within two years after that I struck at a man in a mirror, and smashed the glass and smashed my hand and made myself uncomfortable generally. It may seem strange to you that a man could make such mistakes, but in a dim light, and where everything is strange to him, and he's all sort of keyed up himself, I don't know as it is after all. Still, after that last experience I did think it would be some time before I had any more trouble with mirrors. But within a year I had an experience that was a great deal worse than either of them.

"When I came out of a room in a house I was in one night, on the second floor, looking down the hall—this was pretty near the front where I was—I saw the figure of myself in a mirror at the other end. It was plain enough, even in that light, but it startled me a little at first, and I threw up my gun at it. Of course the figure's hand went up and down, just the same as mine did, and it made me kind of laugh to think of it, and I could imagine the shadow laughing, too, at a man who was afraid of his own shadow.

"Then I went into the next room, and when I came out of that into the hall again my eyes sought the mirror again. It wasn't very pleasant to see yourself in the dark in that way, but it would have been a mighty sight less pleasant not to. But then I was all right, and I stood and looked at it a minute and threw up my arm at it same as before, just up and down, a sort of unnecessary test, but it made me feel just a little easier, and up went the arm in the mirror with mine, but this time, when mine came down, the arm in the mirror staid up.

"Now, don't raise your hands," the man said, covering me with a gun in his upraised hand, voice kind of drawing, but meaning business, you know. You know when a man means business, and this man did mean it, and I kept my hands down.

"Oh, Bill!" he says, not moving a muscle and not shouting it out, but just kind of drawing it out like the other. "Then a man appeared beyond the man that was holding me up, coming toward him and me. He walked right through the mirror, past the other man, and kept coming. It was all plain enough then. In fact, I'd guessed at it before, as may be you have. The mirror wasn't a mirror at all, but a doorway, an opening midway of a long hall, and the frame was the frame of the doorway. There were rooms beyond, just the same as those on the side where I was, and it was the doors of those that I had seen in the mirror and not the reflection of those on my side. And it was out of one of those doors that Bill came. The man with the gun had been ready for me the first time I looked, but it must have been that Bill wasn't then. But Bill was ready now, and he came on past the other man, careful to keep out of his range, of course, making for me, and he came around behind me and took two or three turns of a rope around my body and arms. Then the man with the gun came up, and between them they tied me up good and strong. And that was a matter of some four years."—New York Sun.

Legal Equality.

The women are again moving in the state of Illinois in the interest of equality before the law. God bless them and God speed them in their righteous quest! The shame is that it is left for the women to lead. Let the men inaugurate the movement that will make for justice. This cause has lost its newness. It has had to pay full price for the crudities and extravagances that gather around every reform, but at the core the demand is a righteous one, and it must be heard, and ultimately it must triumph. Let no one lose heart and let no one delay any legitimate effort. Wyoming, Colorado, Utah and Idaho have fully enfranchised their women. "Eastward the star of (this) empire takes its way."—Chicago New Unity.

A Pretty Resort.

A sojourn at Winona Assembly Grounds at Eagle Lake, Ind., near Warsaw, on the Fort Wayne route, will prove a pleasant summer outing. This delightful resort is the site of the youngest of the Chautauqua assemblies, and its attractions combine facilities for recreation, entertainment, instruction and devotion.

Eagle Lake is a beautiful sheet of water, surrounded by several hundred acres of romantic woodland which covers one stretch of nearly two miles. The lake affords opportunity for aquatic pastimes, the boating, bathing and fishing being excellent. In addition to numerous row-boats there are several pleasure steamers on the lake.

The shady grounds are occupied by many pretty cottages and summer homes of persons who annually enjoy the beauties of the place, strengthening body in the invigorating atmosphere and enriching the mind by the special advantages the summer school offers.

A fine park has been laid out on the shore of the lake. A large auditorium, amphitheatre, college halls, hotels and restaurant have also been constructed on the grounds for the accommodation of visitors. There is also a race track and space set aside for out-door athletic sports.

In addition to the Presbyterian General Assembly which will be in session on the Assembly Grounds from May 20 to June 2, a number of other large meetings will be held on the grounds during the summer of 1897, including the Indiana State Sunday School Convention, Western Association of Writers, Indiana State W. C. T. U., Indiana Y. M. C. A., Encampment, National Medical Society, Boys' Brigade, and Indiana State Christian Endeavor Convention.

Excursion tickets to Eagle Lake will be on sale via Pennsylvania Lines during the summer season. Details regarding rates, time of trains, etc., may be ascertained by addressing the nearest passenger or ticket agent of the Pennsylvania lines, or by applying to F. Van Dusen, chief assistant general passenger agent, Pittsburg, Pa. Full information concerning the Assembly and Summer School, cost of entertainment, etc., may be secured upon application to Secretary Sol C. Dickey, Eagle Lake, Ind.

New Entrance to New York.

All are convenient locations; Cortlandt street and Desbrosses street, in the downtown district, and Twenty-third street in the uptown district. The latter entrance will be formally opened May 16, when two new, commodious ferryboats, double-deckers, constructed especially for the Pennsylvania lines and furnished and fitted in up-to-date style, will be placed in service between the Jersey City station and Twenty-third street, connecting with all inbound and outbound trains over the Pennsylvania system, the same as the boats running between that station and Cortlandt street and Desbrosses street, which will also continue in the service.

The Pennsylvania lines' three entrances into New York enable passengers to quickly reach the business portion in the lower end of the city, as well as the hotels and business blocks in the very heart of the great metropolis. The ride across the river is a delightful and refreshing termination to an enjoyable trip. All through trains from the west, over the Pennsylvania lines, land passengers in New York between 9:30 a. m., and 9:30 p. m., treating them to a grand view of the city's water front; its extensive docks where at almost any time may be seen ships of many nations. The wonderful panorama gives visitors a slight idea of the magnitude of New York. The new Twenty-third street ferry line is particularly noteworthy in this respect.

Summer Outing.

The principal places of summer sojourn along the Atlantic ocean in the Alleghenies, the Adirondacks, Catskills, and mountains of the east, and in the lake region and Northern Michigan and the northwest, may be readily reached over the Pennsylvania lines.

Special information regarding the leading resorts and the advantages enjoyed in journeying to them over the Pennsylvania route has been compiled and printed in convenient form. The matter is profusely illustrated with photographic reproductions of seashore scenes and includes views at Atlantic City, Cape May, Long Branch and other resorts along the Atlantic coast; also of Cresson, Bedford Springs, and romantic mountain retreats, and of Petoskey, Mackinac, and the summer havens in Michigan and the northwest.

Persons contemplating summer outing trips will find it a valuable guide in shaping preliminaries. Copies may be obtained by addressing D. C. MacWaters, district passenger agent, Pittsburg, Pa.

A Canton Insurance Man Is the Victim.

HE BEFRIENDED A BAD BOY

But the Youth Could Not Endure Prosperity, and, Folding His Tent, He Gently Stole Money, a Railroad Ticket and Away—Policy Holders Will Not Suffer.

John L. Yost, a prominent insurance man of Canton, was in town today counting up his financial loss because he sent a young man here a few weeks ago to insure the lives of all who had the inclination and the money. He was successful beyond his expectations.

The young man came to the country not long ago from England, and drifting into Canton sought employment. He was without friends or influence, but Mr. Yost had faith in his declaration that he was willing and ready to work, and gave him employment. He was taught the business and then sent to this place to see what he could do. The first few weeks he walked on air, so marked was his success. Business fairly rolled into the Canton office, and the young man was praised into the seventh heaven. Then there came a lull. Business fell off, no more policies went to Canton, and the young man was recalled. He explained away his failure to continue the pace, and was given other employment. Last week some money was due the company here, and giving him a railroad ticket Mr. Yost sent him to Liverpool. This, however, was one of the places he had no desire to see, but he was far to cute to protest. Taking the ticket he boarded the train, and in person passes out of the story.

But the evil men do occasionally lives after them. Hearing nothing from his collector, Mr. Yost came himself to the city. Then the plan of operations was laid bare. The agent had pocketed the cash when he insured a man, and sent a forged note for 30 days to the office. These, with the amount on one policy, make up his defalcation. Mr. Yost at once recognized all the policies, and they will be carried out to the letter. He will be the only loser. Meantime the agent has gone, and not the slightest clue as to his whereabouts is at hand upon which to work.

EVIDENCE AGAINST MALONE.

It Is Being Sought by Prosecutor Speaker and Engineer Farmer.

Prosecutor Speaker is in Wellsville looking up evidence to be used in the trial of Patrick Malone. The prosecutor has nothing to say of his intentions, but it is known that he is losing no time. Surveyor Farmer went to Wellsville today and did the work preparatory to making a plat of the Geisse residence and its surroundings. Prosecutor Speaker will remain several days. He was in town today going over matters in connection with the Robison murder.

CUTTING EXPENSES.

Retrenchment on the Cleveland and Pittsburgh.

A special from Bellaire mentions a matter of interest:

"The Cleveland and Pittsburgh division of the Pennsylvania company are making some very sweeping reductions in their force of employees. Already a large number have been laid off, and orders have been received at the shops in this city to the effect that if any man quits work not to employ any in their place. Only enough are employed at this to do the most necessary work."

NEAR THE RESERVOIR

Will Likely Be Located the Range of Company E.

Captain Will Hill has not yet decided upon a range for Company E, and has spent some time looking over the proposed sites. Objections have been found to the race track and the proposed range on the Anderson farm, the captain believing that the site near the reservoir is by long odds the best. It is probable that the last named will be selected.

The Tempering of Springs.

It is a nice job to temper a steel spring properly. Like many other things, the preparatory work should be well done, or the tempering proper will never be a success. The forge work should be done with a rather low temperature and gentle taps. Smiths are beginning to understand that very many bits of forging have the life pounded out of them by heavy and continuous beating. Light taps smooth the surface and create what is equivalent to a cuticle over the metal. This should be carefully preserved. Light hammering consolidates the particles of steel and toughens the forging. It is said that continuous, steady and light blows with a hammer will magnetize steel. It seems to put life into it. If it is necessary to grind a spring, do it at the outset and before much of the hammering is done. Do not put it on an emery wheel. It breaks the cuticle and destroys the integrity of the metal. The hardening may be done by heating a large piece of iron to a red heat, then putting the spring on the iron until it is heated through.

Another way is to hold the spring over a bright fire until it is sufficiently hot. It should be kept some distance from the fire, so as not to heat too quickly. When it is of a light red and all of a color, plunge it into cool water. Do not use ice water, as is so often suggested. Be careful in putting in the spring that the sudden cooling of one side does not draw it out of shape. If it is put in slowly, it is warped by the sudden cooling of one portion. When fully tempered, polish the spring with emery cloth until it is thoroughly clean and bright. Saturate a piece of paper with oil, light it and allow the smoke to collect on the spring until it is entirely coated with the black. Then heat it over the forge fire very slowly. Do not let one part burn off clean while the other is still black, but let it disappear all over the spring at the same time if possible. The perfection of temper comes from slow and careful handling and the utmost deliberation in heating and hammering.—New York Ledger.

She Made Sure.

It was a bank near the suburbs of Brooklyn in which a little girl, not more than 8 years old, made her appearance the other day, asking if she might see its workings. A polite little girl was not to be refused, and she was taken inside and shown the various departments of the institution. But that was not where the money was kept; could she see where the money was kept? Certainly, and she was taken to see the vaults. Still there was no money to be seen, and she was not satisfied. Could she see the money? Certainly, if that was what she wished, and the vault doors were thrown open, and, with a sigh of satisfaction, the little girl saw some of the money in which she was interested. "Do you think burglars could get in here?" she asked finally. "Certainly not," replied the bank official who had been acting as conductor. "It would be very difficult for burglars to get into the bank, and they could not get into the vaults. But now," he continued, "you have asked me a great many questions, little girl, and I should like to know why you are so much interested in this bank." "Well," said the little girl confidentially, "my papa put $5 in this bank for me the other day, and I wanted to be sure that no burglars could get in and get it."—New York Times.

An Old Fashioned Journalist.

Harmon D. Wilson, who learned his letters from the Troy Chief, has written a two column article on Sol Miller for the Atchison Globe, in which he relates many interesting little reminiscences of the old fellow. Sol would never trust anybody else to make up the forms of his paper, and he never permitted anybody under any circumstances to touch the forms which contained the mailing list. For 40 years he put on an old apron each week and worked over the imposing stones on issue day.

"When The Chief went to press," says Mr. Wilson, "the whistle was blown. That was the signal for all who wished to come and get their papers. Most of those in hearing came. As they took their papers from a folded pile which always stood in a certain place, they wrote their names on a sheet hung there for that purpose."—Kansas City Journal.

Cost of House Building.

There is a mistaken idea very prevalent that a small house that shall be attractive enough for a man of taste cannot be built for less than $2,000 or $3,000. Less than half that sum is sufficient if it is judiciously expended. Any amount of money can be squandered in nonessentials and in decorations that are as useless as inartistic. In the main one only requires from a house, as from a man, that it perform its duty well, and do the things it was intended to do in the best way and be pleasing and graceful in doing it. A model home, if it be skillfully planned, can be erected for a surprisingly small sum in these days.—Chicago Record.

WHAT SHALL I DO?

What shall I do lest life in silence pass?
And if it do
And never prompt the bray of noisy brass,
What needst thou rue?
Remember aye the ocean deeps are mute.
The shallows roar.
Worth is the ocean. Fame is but the brink
Along the shore.
What shall I do to be forever known?
Thy duty ever.
This did full many who yet slept unknown—
Oh, never, never!
Thinkst thou perchance that they remain unknown
Whom thou knowest not?
By angel trumpets in heaven their praise is blown.
Define their lot.
What shall I do to gain eternal life?
Discharge aright
The simple duties with which each day is rife,
Yea, with my might.
Ere perfect scheme of action thou devise
Will life be fled.
While he who ever acts as conscience cries
Shall live, thou dead. —Schiller.

THE RETIRED BURGLAR.

He Tells of Some Very Unpleasant Experiences With Mirrors.

"I have had," said the retired burglar, "some very unpleasant experiences with mirrors. I think I have told you how I once fired at my reflection in a mirror, mistaking it for another man—a mistake that I thought I should never make again. But within two years after that I struck at a man in a mirror, and smashed the glass and smashed my hand and made myself uncomfortable generally. It may seem strange to you that a man could make such mistakes, but in a dim light, and where everything is strange to him, and he's all sort of keyed up himself, I don't know as it is after all. Still, after that last experience I did think it would be some time before I had any more trouble with mirrors. But within a year I had an experience that was a great deal worse than either of them.

"When I came out of a room in a house I was in one night, on the second floor, looking down the hall—this was pretty near the front where I was—I saw the figure of myself in a mirror at the other end. It was plain enough, even in that light, but it startled me a little at first, and I threw up my gun at it. Of course the figure's hand went up and down, just the same as mine did, and it made me kind of laugh to think of it, and I could imagine the shadow laughing, too, at a man who was afraid of his own shadow.

"Then I went into the next room, and when I came out of that into the hall again my eyes sought the mirror again. It wasn't very pleasant to see yourself in the dark in that way, but it would have been a mighty sight less pleasant not to. But then I was all right, and I stood and looked at it a minute and threw up my arm at it same as before, just up and down, a sort of unnecessary test, but it made me feel just a little easier, and up went the arm in the mirror with mine, but this time, when mine came down, the arm in the mirror staid up.

"Now, don't raise your hands," the man said, covering me with a gun in his upraised hand, voice kind of drawling, but meaning business, you know. You know when a man means business, and this man did mean it, and I kept my hands down.

"Oh, Bill!" he says, not moving a muscle and not shouting it out, but just kind of drawling it out like the other.

"Then a man appeared beyond the man that was holding me up, coming toward him and me. He walked right through the mirror, past the other man, and kept coming. It was all plain enough then. In fact, I'd guessed at it before, as may be you have. The mirror wasn't a mirror at all, but a doorway, an opening midway of a long hall, and the frame was the frame of the doorway. There were rooms beyond, just the same as those on the side where I was, and it was the doors of those that I had seen in the mirror and not the reflection of those on my side. And it was out of one of those doors that Bill came. The man with the gun had been ready for me the first time I looked, but it must have been that Bill wasn't then. But Bill was ready now, and he came on past the other man, careful to keep out of his range, of course, making for me, and he came around behind me and took two or three turns of a rope around my body and arms. Then the man with the gun came up, and between them they tied me up good and strong. And that was a matter of some four years."—New York Sun.

Legal Equality.

The women are again moving in the state of Illinois in the interest of equality before the law. God bless them and God speed them in their righteous quest! The shame is that it is left for the women to lead. Let the men inaugurate the movement that will make for justice. This cause has lost its newness. It has had to pay full price for the crudities and extravagances that gather around every reform, but at the core the demand is a righteous one, and it must be heard, and ultimately it must triumph. Let no one lose heart and let no one delay any legitimate effort. Wyoming, Colorado, Utah and Idaho have fully enfranchised their women. "Eastward the star of (this) empire takes its way."—Chicago New Unity.

A Pretty Resort.

A sojourn at Winona Assembly Grounds at Eagle Lake, Ind., near Warsaw, on the Fort Wayne route, will prove a pleasant summer outing. This delightful resort is the site of the youngest of the Chautauqua assemblies, and its attractions combine facilities for recreation, entertainment, instruction and devotion.

Eagle Lake is a beautiful sheet of water, surrounded by several hundred acres of romantic woodland which covers one stretch of nearly two miles. The lake affords opportunity for aquatic pastimes, the boating, bathing and fishing being excellent. In addition to numerous row-boats there are several pleasure steamers on the lake.

The shady grounds are occupied by many pretty cottages and summer homes of persons who annually enjoy the beauties of the place, strengthening body in the invigorating atmosphere and enriching the mind by the special advantages the summer school offers.

A fine park has been laid out on the shore of the lake. A large auditorium, amphitheatre, college halls, hotels and restaurant have also been constructed on the grounds for the accommodation of visitors. There is also a race track and space set aside for out-door athletic sports.

In addition to the Presbyterian General Assembly which will be in session on the Assembly Grounds from May 10 to June 2, a number of other large meetings will be held on the grounds during the summer of 1897, including the Indiana State Sunday School Convention, Western Association of Writers, Indiana State W. C. T. U., Indiana Y. M. C. A., Encampment, National Medical Society, Boys' Brigade, and Indiana State Christian Endeavor Convention.

Excursion tickets to Eagle Lake will be on sale via Pennsylvania Lines during the summer season. Details regarding rates, time of trains, etc., may be ascertained by addressing the nearest passenger or ticket agent of the Pennsylvania lines, or by applying to F. Van Dusen, chief assistant general passenger agent, Pittsburg, Pa. Full information concerning the Assembly and Summer School, cost of entertainment, etc., may be secured upon application to Secretary Sol. C. Dickey, Eagle Lake, Ind.

New Entrance to New York.

All are convenient locations; Cortlandt street and Desbrosses street, in the downtown district, and Twenty-third street in the uptown district. The latter entrance will be formally opened May 16, when two new, commodious ferryboats, double-deckers, constructed especially for the Pennsylvania lines and furnished and fitted in up-to-date style, will be placed in service between the Jersey City station and Twenty-third street, connecting with all inbound and outbound trains over the Pennsylvania system, the same as the boats running between that station and Cortlandt street and Desbrosses street, which will also continue in the service.

The Pennsylvania lines' three entrances into New York enable passengers to quickly reach the business portion in the lower end of the city, as well as the hotels and business blocks in the very heart of the great metropolis. The ride across the river is a delightful and refreshing termination to an enjoyable trip. All through trains from the west, over the Pennsylvania lines, land passengers in New York between 9:30 a. m., and 9:30 p. m., treating them to a grand view of the city's water front; its extensive docks where at almost any time may be seen ships of many nations. The wonderful panorama gives visitors a slight idea of the magnitude of New York. The new Twenty-third street ferry line is particularly noteworthy in this respect.

Summer Outing.

The principal places of summer sojourn along the Atlantic ocean in the Alleghenies, the Adirondacks, Catskills, and mountains of the east, and in the lake region and Northern Michigan and the northwest, may be readily reached over the Pennsylvania lines.

Special information regarding the leading resorts and the advantages enjoyed in journeying to them over the Pennsylvania route has been compiled and printed in convenient form. The matter is profusely illustrated with photographic reproductions of seashore scenes and includes views at Atlantic City, Cape May, Long Branch and other resorts along the Atlantic coast; also of Cresson, Bedford Springs, and romantic mountain retreats, and of Petoskey, Mackinac, and the summer havens in Michigan and the northwest.

Persons contemplating summer outing trips will find it a valuable guide in shaping preliminaries. Copies may be obtained by addressing D. C. MacWaters, district passenger agent, Pittsburg, Pa.

THIEVES IN SOCIETY.

STORIES TOLD BY NONBELIEVERS IN KLEPTOMANIA.

Light Fingers In the Dressing Rooms of Fashionable Entertainers—Unfair Exchanges Which May Be Called Robbery. Old Things For New.

"Oh, give it any name you like—borrowing other people's belongings and failing ever to return them, mistaken identity as to special possessions or kleptomania, but I call it thieving, and something ought to be done about it."

This is what the blond woman in the very smart bonnet said to her nearest neighbor in blue, whereupon every other woman near the tea table cut short her conversation and held her cup in midair to hear what the discussion would bring forth.

"That I do," went on the blond emphatically, "and I've been stolen from repeatedly. No, my dear, I won't take a word of it back, and I am not speaking hastily. In every instance it was a plain case of theft, and I've not up to date recovered a single belonging. Why, of course if it had been a grimy fingered sneak thief, or a too enterprising housemaid, I most naturally would have gone to the police and detectives for protection and assistance, but it is not quite so easy to have an individual who wears the best French gloves, whose bonnets come from an expensive importer and who sometimes asks you to share her opera box, receive at her teas or take a lift home in her brougham, arrested and searched on suspicion."

"Well, I never!" remarked the woman in blue.

"Oh, that's just because you are a dear, unsophisticated little creature, and out in your western town they don't do such things. The temptations are not so great, but I can assure you that here in our big cities, at regular intervals, polite kleptomania is simply rampant, and hardly a big function breaks up that half the women don't come away quite savage over the loss of some pretty and especially prized belonging." Evidently the blond was right, for all the other women nodded assent, and the hostess was apparently breathless to tell of some personal grievance on this score, when the first speaker broke in again:

"You see," she elaborated, "we used to think it might have been the servants' fault, or an honest error, when we found our possessions exchanged for others less valuable or simply disappearing, until two or three times the offenders were caught right in the act, and then came the awfully dismal consciousness that really no one could be trusted."

"My first experience was with a very costly lace fan I carried to a dinner. I held on to it most affectionately throughout the evening, until some half dozen of us went up to the hostess' bedroom for our wraps. There I laid it, with my vinaigrette and fan, on the dressing table, and when I turned to get them again the fan was gone. I protested, the maid searched, but nothing came of it, and broken heartedly I went down, bewailing my loss to a sympathizing feminine companion. We went out to our respective carriages together, but as the butler opened the hall door a puff of wind blew her long cloak aside, and there I saw, snug in its pocket, my precious fan. Well, the next day I wrote her very frankly, asking for its return, suggesting, of course, she had taken it by mistake, and home it came. But we have never spoken since."

"That taught me to look for higher offenders than maids in dressing rooms, who are usually accused of making way with all wraps, umbrellas, overshoes and what not that may be missing."

"Ah, that is not my trouble," chimed in a debutante across the tea table. "The favorite plan is now to exchange bad for good things. I am growing almost philosophical over the deplorable shabbiness of my wardrobe from this constant swapping. Last week, on coming up late to the dressing room from a dance, I found in place of my brand new green suede carriage overshoes two overlarge, badly worn ones of rusty black velvet and my lace head scarf exchanged for a frayed one of soiled white chiffon. Naturally cross and sleepy, I fell on the tired maid, who wept and denied, but looked as if she could tell a tale."

"Only to make a test case of it I rolled my new French galoches in my mackintosh, laid my card on top and put them in a safe corner of the dressing room of a house where I went to luncheon the other day. But it was of no avail. The galoches had been metamorphosed into a pair of muddy rubbers with holes in them when I went back, and I didn't grumble, since my pretty umbrella was left. The work of the spoiler goes on in the cloakrooms when big wedding receptions, teas, musicales and private balls are in progress."

"At one of the big dances of the season the hostess simply ordered her maid to issue checks for every woman's wrap, and, charming to relate, not so much as a hairpin was lost, for at her daughter's wedding reception, only a week before, three muffs got away somehow without their rightful owners, and the possessor of a $800 sable hand warmer found a scrubby old astrakhan one in its place."

"That is where the fashionable kleptomaniacs save their consciences by an exchange, you see, for rarely is anything taken that some inferior article is not put in its place, and very rarely are they caught with them. Their position in society is one of protection, and their victims are too timid or proud to trace a clew, which too often leads right to the door of their best friends or some woman who is aiding materially in helping them along in society."—Milliecent Arrowpoint in Chicago Record.

From Her Point of View.

The dentist said something about his little bill, but the woman looked at him coldly.

"I owe you nothing," she said. "Why, madam," protested the dentist, "you surely won't deny that you had a tooth pulled in my office!"

"It is more than likely that I did," she admitted. "At any rate you gave me gas, and when I regained consciousness the tooth was gone. I am quite ready to give you credit for having removed it."

"Then, I do not see why you should refuse to pay me."

The haughty creature still regarded him coldly.

"It looks to me," she said, "very much like an attempt to defraud."

"Madam!" he exclaimed.

"Not to use any harsher language," she went on, "it seems like obtaining goods under false pretenses and also extortion."

"I do not understand you," said the astonished dentist. "So far I have had nothing from you."

"My maid informs me," asserted the haughty creature, "that while under the influence of gas I did not spare my voice."

"She is right," admitted the dentist.

"On at least one occasion your voice landed up in the top register."

"So my maid told me," said the haughty creature. "Until I heard that I had intended to pay your bill upon presentation, but when I was finally convinced that you had basely taken advantage of my helpless condition to extract from me some of the high notes for which I am in the habit of receiving not less than $250 I was tempted to have you arrested for larceny."

Then it was that he recalled that she was an opera singer of some note, and he hastily withdrew, lest in her excitement she should pitch her voice high enough to add another item of $250 to her bill for entertaining him while at work.—Chicago Post.

The Toastmaster's Nervousness.

Years and years ago, when the Press club, of more or less blessed memory, was in existence, a British newspaper man—only they call it a journalist on the other side—was at the club one evening. He had been in Washington for some time and was leaving next day. Mr. Karl Decker made a speech to him.

"Mr. Soandso," he said, "you have spent some time with us, and you have made many friends. We have become attached to you. You are going away tomorrow and we may never see you again, but in order that you may always have something by which to remember us, on behalf of the Press club I present you this ring."

And then he struck the call bell on the reading table near him. The Englishman looked just a trifle bewildered for a bit, then he reached out his hand, thanked the club and pocketed the bell. And—bless his simple English heart—next morning he told another newspaper man how kind the Press club had been to him and what a lovely presentation speech Mr. Decker had made.

"Mr. Decker must have been awfully nervous, you know," he said, "though he didn't show it, for he said, 'I present you this ring,' and, don't ye know, it wasn't a ring at all; it was a bell."—Washington Post.

Outdoor Air.

Few persons stop to think of the great difference between indoor and outdoor air. In every dwelling a portion of the air has already entered the lungs and is in the nature of excrement. The outdoor air alone is tolerably pure, but perfectly so only at high altitudes and away from cities.

We talk about climate cure, about going to Florida or Nice for health, but we venture to assert that any invalid may secure a greater improvement with regard to the air he breathes by proper ventilation of his dwelling room and by living out of doors most of the time than he can by going to any new climate and neglecting these conditions. Many a poor invalid's salvation might be found in his own garden, while he may go to the ends of the earth in search of health and die in the closed room to which he has retreated in the fear of outdoor air.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Footed the Bills.

Francis W. Bird, the Sage of Walpole, once went to see Dr. S. G. Howe and found him with his feet swathed in flannels and extended on a chair. "Howe, what is the matter?" he asked. "I have got the gout," said Howe. "You have got the gout—such a temperance man as you." "Yes, Bird, my ancestors drank wine, and I have to foot the bills."—Boston Transcript.

Sandals were more fashionable among the Egyptians than among the Hebrews. They were worn by women of the highest rank, for we read of the sandals with long, turn up points which a beautiful queen habitually wore when she was at home.

A Lost Chance.

"Help, help!" cried the drowning man. "I am drowning!" "Jove! What an opportunity!" cried the reporter on the shore, whipping out his notebook. "Quick, tell me your sensations, and I'll give you a send off in next Sunday's paper." But it was too late. The man had gone down for the third time.—Harper's Bazar.

THIEVES IN SOCIETY.

STORIES TOLD BY NONBELIEVERS IN KLEPTOMANIA.

Light Fingers in the Dressing Rooms of Fashionable Entertainers—Unfair Exchanges Which May Be Called Robbery. Old Things For New.

"Oh, give it any name you like—borrowing other people's belongings and failing ever to return them, mistaken identity as to special possessions or kleptomania, but I call it thieving, and something ought to be done about it."

This is what the blond woman in the very smart bonnet said to her nearest neighbor in blue, whereupon every other woman near the tea table cut short her conversation and held her cup in midair to hear what the discussion would bring forth.

"That I do," went on the blond emphatically, "and I've been stolen from repeatedly. No, my dear, I won't take a word of it back, and I am not speaking hastily. In every instance it was a plain case of theft, and I've not up to date recovered a single belonging. Why, of course if it had been a grimy fingered sneak thief, or a too enterprising housemaid, I most naturally would have gone to the police and detectives for protection and assistance, but it is not quite so easy to have an individual who wears the best French gloves, whose bonnets come from an expensive importer and who sometimes asks you to share her opera box, receive at her teas or take a lift home in her brougham, arrested and searched on suspicion."

"Well, I never!" remarked the woman in blue.

"Oh, that's just because you are a dear, unsophisticated little creature, and out in your western town they don't do such things. The temptations are not so great, but I can assure you that here in our big cities, at regular intervals, polite kleptomania is simply rampant, and hardly a big function breaks up that half the women don't come away quite savage over the loss of some pretty and especially prized belonging." Evidently the blond was right, for all the other women nodded assent, and the hostess was apparently breathless to tell of some personal grievance on this score, when the first speaker broke in again:

"You see," she elaborated, "we used to think it might have been the servants' fault, or an honest error, when we found our possessions exchanged for others less valuable or simply disappearing, until two or three times the offenders were caught right in the act, and then came the awfully dismal consciousness that really no one could be trusted."

"My first experience was with a very costly lace fan I carried to a dinner. I held on to it most affectionately throughout the evening, until some half dozen of us went up to the hostess' bedroom for our wraps. There I laid it, with my vinaigrette and fan, on the dressing table, and when I turned to get them again the fan was gone. I protested, the maid searched, but nothing came of it, and broken heartedly I went down, bewailing my loss to a sympathizing feminine companion. We went out to our respective carriages together, but as the butler opened the hall door a puff of wind blew her long cloak aside, and there I saw, snug in its pocket, my precious fan. Well, the next day I wrote her very frankly, asking for its return, suggesting, of course, she had taken it by mistake, and home it came. But we have never spoken since."

"That taught me to look for higher offenders than maids in dressing rooms, who are usually accused of making way with all wraps, umbrellas, overshoes and what not that may be missing."

"Ah, that is not my trouble," chimed in a debutante across the tea table. "The favorite plan is now to exchange bad for good things. I am growing almost philosophical over the deplorable shabbiness of my wardrobe from this constant swapping. Last week, on coming up late to the dressing room from a dance, I found in place of my brand new green suede carriage overshoes two overlarge, badly worn ones of rusty black velvet and my lace head scarf exchanged for a frayed one of soiled white chiffon. Naturally cross and sleepy, I fell on the tired maid, who wept and denied, but looked as if she could tell a tale."

"Only to make a test case of it I rolled my new French galoches in my mackintosh, laid my card on top and put them in a safe corner of the dressing room of a house where I went to luncheon the other day. But it was of no avail. The galoches had been metamorphosed into a pair of muddy rubbers with holes in them when I went back, and I didn't grumble, since my pretty umbrella was left. The work of the spoiler goes on in the cloakrooms when big wedding receptions, teas, musicales and private balls are in progress."

"At one of the big dances of the season the hostess simply ordered her maid to issue checks for every woman's wrap, and, charming to relate, not so much as a hairpin was lost, for at her daughter's wedding reception, only a week before, three muffs got away somehow without their rightful owners, and the possessor of a $300 sable band warmer found a scrubby old astrakhan one in its place."

"That is where the fashionable kleptomaniacs save their consciences by an exchange, you see, for rarely is anything taken that some inferior article is not put in its place, and very rarely are they caught with them. Their position in society is one of protection, and their victims are too timid or proud to trace a clew, which too often leads right to the door of their best friends or some woman who is aiding materially in helping them along in society."—Mill-cent Arrowpoint in Chicago Record.

From Her Point of View.

The dentist said something about his little bill, but the woman looked at him coldly.

"I owe you nothing," she said. "Why, madam," protested the dentist, "you surely won't deny that you had a tooth pulled in my office!"

"It is more than likely that I did," she admitted. "At any rate you gave me gas, and when I regained consciousness the tooth was gone. I am quite ready to give you credit for having removed it."

"Then, I do not see why you should refuse to pay me."

The haughty creature still regarded him coldly.

"It looks to me," she said, "very much like an attempt to defraud."

"Madam!" he exclaimed.

"Not to use any harsher language," she went on, "it seems like obtaining goods under false pretenses and also extortion."

"I do not understand you," said the astonished dentist. "So far I have had nothing from you."

"My maid informs me," asserted the haughty creature, "that while under the influence of gas I did not spare my voice."

"She is right," admitted the dentist. "On at least one occasion your voice landed up in the top register."

"So my maid told me," said the haughty creature. "Until I heard that I had intended to pay your bill upon presentation, but when I was finally convinced that you had basely taken advantage of my helpless condition to extract from me some of the high notes for which I am in the habit of receiving not less than $250 I was tempted to have you arrested for larceny."

Then it was that he recalled that she was an opera singer of some note, and he hastily withdrew, lest in her excitement she should pitch her voice high enough to add another item of $250 to her bill for entertaining him while at work.—Chicago Post.

The Toastmaster's Nervousness.

Years and years ago, when the Press club, of more or less blessed memory, was in existence, a British newspaper man—only they call it a journalist on the other side—was at the club one evening. He had been in Washington for some time and was leaving next day. Mr. Karl Decker made a speech to him.

"Mr. Soandso," he said, "you have spent some time with us, and you have made many friends. We have become attached to you. You are going away tomorrow and we may never see you again, but in order that you may always have something by which to remember us, on behalf of the Press club I present you this ring."

And then he struck the call bell on the reading table near him. The Englishman looked just a trifle bewildered for a bit, then he reached out his hand, thanked the club and pocketed the bell. And—bless his simple English heart—next morning he told another newspaper man how kind the Press club had been to him and what a lovely presentation speech Mr. Decker had made.

"Mr. Decker must have been awfully nervous, you know," he said, "though he didn't show it, for he said, 'I present you this ring,' and, don't ye know, it wasn't a ring at all; it was a bell."—Washington Post.

Outdoor Air.

Few persons stop to think of the great difference between indoor and outdoor air. In every dwelling a portion of the air has already entered the lungs and is in the nature of excrement. The outdoor air alone is tolerably pure, but perfectly so only at high altitudes and away from cities.

We talk about climate cure, about going to Florida or Nice for health, but we venture to assert that any invalid may secure a greater improvement with regard to the air he breathes by proper ventilation of his dwelling room and by living out of doors most of the time than he can by going to any new climate and neglecting these conditions. Many a poor invalid's salvation might be found in his own garden, while he may go to the ends of the earth in search of health and die in the closed room to which he has retreated in the fear of outdoor air.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Footed the Bills.

Francis W. Bird, the Sage of Walpole, once went to see Dr. S. G. Howe and found him with his feet swathed in flannels and extended on a chair. "Howe, what is the matter?" he asked. "I have got the gout," said Howe. "You have got the gout—such a temperance man as you." "Yes, Bird, my ancestors drank wine, and I have to foot the bills."—Boston Transcript.

Sandals were more fashionable among the Egyptians than among the Hebrews. They were worn by women of the highest rank, for we read of the sandals with long, turn up points which a beautiful queen habitually wore when she was at home.

"Help, help!" cried the drowning man. "I am drowning!" "Jove! What an opportunity!" cried the reporter on the shore, whipping out his notebook. "Quick, tell me your sensations, and I'll give you a send off in next Sunday's paper." But it was too late. The man had gone down for the third time.—Harper's Bazar.
